New Wave Of Violence Sweeps Over India

SIX KILLED IN LATEST RIOTS AMONG HINDUS

English Going Ahead With Plans To Withdraw From Country

NEW DELHI, May 24 — At least six persons were killed and scores wounded today in fresh communal violence that swept India today while British leaders studied plans to withdraw from the country.

Forty Sikhs, armed with bombs and small arms, were reported to have attacked the Moslem village of Rasulpura in the outskirts of Amritsar. Five villagers were killed and 12 wounded in the attack.

The Bombay government announced that one person was killed and 13 injured in a new wave of communal rioting in the central part of the city.

Police in the early morning hours fired 11 rounds into rioters who started a knife attack in the crowded Null bazaar.

Meanwhile, at New Delhi, Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru belittled Mohammed Ali Jinnah's demands for a trans-Hindustan corridor from his proposed Moslem state of Pakistan.

The congress party leader contemptuously referred to Jinnah's claims as "fantastic" and "absurd."

PROMOTING PENSION increases from the French government, these French war invalids stage a sitdown strike on a Paris street. The demonstration is one of many in the country which is being ripped by a series of riots and rallies protesting the government's economic controls.

FARMER FIGHTS CONVICTION ON FISHING CHARGE

Robert Chester Fined $40 For Spearing Carp; Four Others Arrested

Jailed for refusing to pay fines and costs totaling $51.20 for spearing two carp in the waters of the Scioto river Friday night, Robert Chester, 45, Route 2, Williamsport, said Saturday he had retained Attorney Tom A. Renick as counsel and planned to fight the case against him.

Chester, who said that 45 acres of his farm are as yet unplowed and that the livestock on his farm need his attention, was arrested by Fish and Game Protector Chalmer Burns, of Fayette county, and Burns charged Chester with violating Section 1420 of the Ohio General Code.

Chester pleaded not guilty before Justice of the Peace Harold O. Eveland shortly after his arrest Friday night. Burns filed two affidavits against Chester—one for each carp. Following a hearing Justice Eveland found Chester guilty. He imposed a fine of $25 and costs of $5.60 on one count and $15 and $5.60 costs on the second charge.

Chester refused to pay and he was committed to the Pickaway county jail.

• • •

ONE OF FIVE men taken into custody on similar charged Friday night by Fish and Game Protectors Burns and Clarence Francis of Circleville, Chester declared that he was snagging the carp with a pitchfork merely for sport, that he had intended to throw the fish back, and he pronounced them non-edible.

The four other men arrested each paid fines and costs.

Game Protector Burns arrested Sterley Beavers, Route 1, Orient, for attempting to spear fish in the Scioto river with a pitchfork in violation of Section 1420. Justice Eveland fined Beavers $15 and $4.80 costs.

SHOWDOWN DUE TUESDAY WHEN VOTING BEGINS

Taft Optimistic Over Law As Week Of Compromise Work Ends

WASHINGTON, May 24 — House-senate conferees on new labor legislation drafted a "test bill" today in preparation for a showdown Tuesday when section-by-section voting will begin.

Signs pointed to delivery of a bill to President Truman by the first week of June.

Chairman Taft (R) Ohio, put the committee lawyers to work on the tentative draft, and he and Rep. Hartley (R) N. J., house conferees chairman, are to take a hand in it today.

Taft said he expected the voting to be finished by conferees by Wednesday night, but he saw the possibility that a second tentative draft may have to be written for final action.

• • •

STILL UNDECIDED, formally at least, were a few such major issues as:

1. Industrywide bargaining.
2. Direct use of injunctions by employers.
3. How far the senate will go in accepting part of the house-passed "workers' bill of rights."

Taft was optimistic as the first week's negotiations on a compromise ended.

The senate conferees accepted the house-passed ban on strikes against the government or corporations wholly-owned by the government.

SENATE CONFEREES also accepted the house section outlawing political expenditures — as well as the presently-outlawed "contributions" — by labor unions.

The senate group also agreed to modify its ban on welfare funds not jointly administered labor and management to continue present plans which are working satisfactorily.

GARSSON MONEY USED MAY SAYS

Former Solon Awaits More Cross-Examination In Conspiracy Case

WASHINGTON, May 24 — Ex-Rep. Andrew J. May (D) Ky., rested today, his strength sapped by six days of interrogation on his wartime dealings with the munitions - making Garsson brothers.

The aging, ailing former congressman was preparing for a continuation Monday of Prosecutor William Paisley's searching cross-examination, which has already led him to admit:

1. That he used money given him by Henry and Murray Garsson to pay income taxes, hotel and store bills and other personal expenses.

2. That he was in the habit, while in congress, of borrowing against future salary checks when he needed money.

• • •

THE ADMISSIONS were made to a federal district court jury which for five weeks has been hearing the war fraud conspiracy trial against May and the Garssons.

May steadfastly maintained, however, that whenever he used Garsson money for himself, somehow or another he put a matching amount of his own money into the Cumberland Lumber company, which he said he ran for the Garssons.

The government charges that the company, located in May's home town of Prestonsburg, Ky., was used to hide payment of $53,000 in bribes to the congressman for favors he did the Garssons while house military committee chairman.

• • •

IT WAS during questioning by the soft - spoken, hard-hitting Paisley that May showed his first real expression of bitterness since the trial began.

He denounced government investigators for "pillaging" his bank accounts while checking up on his dealing with the Garssons and then, in a voice choked with emotion, he said:

"They even went to the extent of learning how many flowers were sent to my wife's funeral."

Smooth-bore Cannon To Be Anti- Aircraft Weapon

WASHINGTON, May 24 — The Army's search for anti-aircraft weapons that can cope with modern high speed airplanes turned today to one of the oldest types of firearms — the smooth-bore cannon.

But the smooth-bore anti-aircraft gun to be demonstrated at Aberdeen, Md., ordnance proving ground this week is a far cry from the old smooth-bore cannons of the Civil War and earlier periods.

Its projectile travels at a speed of 5,000 to 6,000 feet per second, ten times as fast as early cannon, and nearly twice as fast as the most efficient rifled guns yet produced.

Accuracy — the lack of which turned ordnance men to rifled bores—is obtained through the use of fins on the projectile. And some British experiments with smooth-bore guns firing finned projectiles have achieved a degree of rotation for accuracy.

• • •

THE DEVELOPMENT of 600-mile-per-hour airplanes has made like development of anti-aircraft a "must" with Army ordnance. Much is being done with guided missiles, but ordnance experts say that the day of the missile that will follow an airplane automatically is probably 15 years away.

And while the work on missiles goes ahead, so does the work on anti-aircraft guns.

The smooth-bore finned projectile is one of these developments. Ordnance officers point out that with its terrific velocity, the finned projectile can reach an airplane at 20,000 feet in just half the time an ordinary shell would.

At present, the smooth-bore gun has disadvantages in slowness of loading and firing, but ordnance hopes to overcome these problems.

Democrats Attack GOP Slashes Of Farm Funds

WASHINGTON, May 24—Rep. Cannon (D) Mo. charged today that the house Republican leadership has "read the riot act" to GOP members, but he promised a fight "right down the line" to restore cuts in agriculture appropriations for 1948.

The ranking minority member of the house appropriations committee declared that after the appropriations subcommittee on agriculture had slashed 337 million dollar budget, the Republi- department's one billion, 200 million dollar budget, the Republican leadership demanded that a further cut be made.

He said that as a result of the GOP action, the subcommittee was reconvened by its chairman, Rep. Dirksen (R) Ill. and another 45 million was cut from the appropriations bill to make an overall 32 percent reduction.

• • •

CANNON said amendments would be offered by the Democrats to restore some of the major cuts, but he appeared pessimistic over the outcome.

The ex-committee chairman added:

"The Republicans have tossed the farmers to the lions. The farmers of the West helped elect the Republicans last year and now the Republicans have turned around and kicked them."

• • •

MEANWHILE, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson charged that the slash in funds for his agency "directs sharp cut at the interests of the American farm family and the general public."

Republican leaders remained unperturbed, however, by Democratic threats of reprisals. They said the nation had voted for economy last Fall and they intended to fulfill Republican promises.

The committee-approved bill will be called up in the house Monday. The committee recommended that the 1948 agriculture department budget of $1,188,571,318 be reduced to $805,143,576, a cut of $383,427,742. This represented a reduction of $469,542,475 or 40 percent below the funds given the department this year.

The cut, if sustained by the house, would bring to $2,672,529,230 reductions made so far in President Truman's 37½ billion dollar budget. The house voted to reduce it by six billion dollars, the senate by four and one-half billion.

COOL AND RAINY WEATHER FOR WEEKEND SEEN

By International News Service

The Ohio Weather was heading back into the same old rut today—with the weather bureau forecasting scattered showers and cooler conditions throughout the state over the weekend.

Forecasters said that there may be an occasional burst of sunshine tomorrow, but not enough to remove the chill from the air or dispell the cloudy overcast.

With more than two days of warm and sunny conditions to aid them, Ohio farmers were catching up with their long-delayed plowing and planting.

High and low temperatures at various points for the 24-hour period ending at 8 a. m. today were:

Akron, 79-56; Chesapeake 86-56; Cincinnati 80-54; Cleveland 81-56; Columbus 80-60; Dayton 77-59; East Liverpool 80-54; Findlay 79-57; Hayesville 76-57; Parkersburg, W. Va., 86-57; Perry 74-54; Toledo 78-55; Wilmington 80-62; Youngstown 79-56, and Zanesville 83-54.

OFFICERS CHECK DEAF MUTE'S ATTACK STORY

PORTSMOUTH, O., May 24—The Scioto county sheriff's office checked today the reported confession of a 35-year-old deaf-mute that he attacked and robbed a Dry Run storekeeper.

Sheriff's Deputy Burl Justice said the suspect, Hermie Caudill, Salyersville, Ky., scrawled on a blackboard an admission that he robbed Newton Rice, 66, of $750 after beating and stabbing him yesterday afternoon.

Caudill, said to be a fugitive from the La Grange, Ky., penitentiary since 1941, was captured by a posse in the Scioto river bottoms near Portsmouth after a four-hour search. Justice said he offered no resistance.

Rice was in "favorable" condition in a Portsmouth hospital. He suffered from shock and loss of blood. Following the attack, he chased his assailant until he collapsed from loss of blood.

The storekeeper received knife wounds in the chest, forehead and near his left eye.

Justice said Caudill claimed he did not want to harm Rice but was hungry.

UTILITIES MAY BE SEIZED IN FRENCH DISPUTE

PARIS, May 24—Reports that the government has framed a military - civilian mobilization plan to cope with a threatened utility strike brought talk today of a left-wing socialist move to force resignation of Premier Ramadier.

Paris newspapers said the Ramadier government, intent on preserving its economic stabilization program, has decided to commandeer gas and electric power workers in the event the threatened strike materializes Wednesday.

According to the Paris Presse, the government will not hesitate to call in troops and military school students to replace striking workers to assure continued functioning of vital public services and prevent possible turmoil.

ENIWETOK PLANNED

PHILADELPHIA, May 24 — The invasion of Eniwetok island was planned 20 years before the second world war, according to Gen. A. A. Vandegrift, commandant of the U. S. Marine Corps. General Vandegrift told a Marine reserve corps officers dinner last night that the plan was worked out in 1921 "in event of emergency."

WATTS PLEADS NOT GUILTY IN SHOOTING CASE

COLUMBUS, O., May 24 — Joseph E. Watts, 37-year-old Columbus taxicab driver, pleaded innocent when he was arraigned today on a manslaughter charge filed by the father of a youth shot near Watts' west-side home.

Watts was accused in charges filed by the father of 14-year-old Donald Dethy. The boy was killed by a shotgun blast Sunday night when allegedly "prowling" near Watts' home.

Watts told police he meant to fire over the youth's head after he failed to stop when ordered to do so. The cab driver said he had called out three times for the youth to stop or he would fire.

LEGION AND VFW UNITS SELLING POPPIES HERE

Many Circlevilleans wore "twin" poppies Saturday in tribute to the nation's heroes in World Wars I and II.

Two separate groups of girls were selling the little red flowers on the streets, in stores, offices, and shops, and also house-to-house.

One group represented the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the second sold poppies on behalf of the American Legion.

Proceeds from the poppy sales will be used for rehabilitation of war veterans and their dependents.

APPEALS COURT SUSTAINS DILTZ CONVICTION HERE

Conviction of Orin Diltz, 24, serving a one to seven year term in the Ohio Penitentiary for grand larceny in the looting of the parked car of Vaden Couch in Circleville, was sustained Saturday by unanimous ruling of the three judges of the Fourth District Court of Appeals.

The judges are Roy J. Gillen, Wellston; Russell K. McCurdy, Portsmouth; and Verner E. Metcalf, Marietta. The ruling was received at the office of Clerk of Courts Arthur L. Wilder.

The sentence was imposed on Diltz by Common Pleas Judge William D. Radcliff after a jury Feb. 5 had found him guilty.

Meanwhile, trial of George Clifton, scheduled for Monday, has been postponed until Monday, June 2. Prosecutor Kenneth E. Robbins, who announced the postponement, said Clifton's inability to get counsel had forced postponement of the hearing.

'TURNAROUND' WARNING ISSUED BY POLICE CHIEF

Police Chief W. F. McCrady Saturday warned motorists against turning their autos on Court and Main street.

Chief McCrady said revised city ordinances prohibit making turns on Court or Main streets, except at alley intersections. U-turns are prohibited at all traffic lights.

Several motorists were stopped Saturday while making U-turns close to streets, the chief said.

GUNMEN SHOOT DAYTON MAN IN FRONT OF HOME

DAYTON, O., May 24—George K. Zavakos, 59, Dayton candy company owner and bowling alley proprieter, was shot to death early today by two men in front of his home.

Police said neighbors told them the gunmen apparently were waiting for Zavakos to return home. He had just alighted from a station wagon when he was shot.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hussey, who live across the street from Zavakos, said two shots were fired, after which the gunmen fled in a two-colored automobile.

Police reported the victim had more than $1,100 in cash on his person.

He died en route to a hospital.

BERRY JAM IS WASTED NEAR MT. STERLING

Truck load of strawberries became jam Friday in Route 62 three miles south of Mt. Sterling —and it was not because of the rainy weather, either.

Highway patrolmen reported Marion E. Denning, Bowling Green, Ky., swerved his truck to avoid collision with one driven by Milton W. Trabill, Mt. Sterling, but the Kentucky truck struck the rear of Trabill's truck and overturned.

Neither driver was injured but berries valued at $1,980 were spilled over the highway and into a ditch.

The historic fort has been declared surplus by the Army. It will be turned over to the war assets administration when the Fifth Service Command is disbanded next week.

Adjutant General Chester W. Goble said the ONG's contemplated use of the facilities would not interfere with the desire of the city of Columbus to establish a housing project there.

Meanwhile, Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler, Fifth Service Command head, prepared to join Gen. Eisenhower's staff in Washington Monday.

MARTIAL LAW THREATENED IN CHINESE RIOTS

NANKING, May 24 — Government officials, harrassed by student-led agitation for cessation of China's civil war, today prepared to impose martial law throughout the country if the revolts interfere with nationalist military operations against the Communists.

Sympathy strikes protesting police action in attacking striking students in Nanking May 20 were reported being staged by university and high school students.

The strikes ranged from Yunan province in south China to Peiping in the north where student clashes with police are resulting in growing causalty lists.

TOLEDO NEARS AA LEAD; BIRDS MOVE TO THIRD

By International News Service

If opportunity knocks but once, the Toledo Mud Hens are stymied today.

The Hens missed a chance to take the American Association lead last night when they split a double header with Indianapolis while the pacesetting Kansas City Blues were losing to St. Paul.

Toledo squeezed out a 3-to-2 ninth inning victory in its first game behind another slick pitching job by Lefty Earl Jones. The Indians' veteran Lou Tost limited the Mud Hens to six hits in the nightcap, however, winning 6 to 1.

Meanwhile, Kansas City lost a 7-to-5 slugfest to the Saints, who tied the score in the eighth, then pushed over two runs in the ninth to win.

Columbus and Milwaukee took over third and fourth place, respectively, dislodging the Louisville Colonels. Columbus took care of the slipping 1946 champs, 8 to 7, in a thriller, and Milwaukee stopped Minneapolis' sluggers in both ends of a twin bill, 5 to 2 and 4 to 2.

Rookie Alex Patterson of Columbus won his fourth game without a loss, although he was tagged for three runs in the opening inning and finally had to have help from Ira Hutchinson.

Jim Gleeson of Louisville and Don Lang of Columbus had home runs.

Ewald Pyle set the Millers down with three hits, one a homer by Wes Westrum, to win the opener for Milwaukee. In the second game, Al Epperly scattered ten hits.

SEAMEN KILLED, OTHERS ESCAPE BLAZING TANKER

LONDON, May 24 — One seaman was killed but the remainder of the crew was rescued today from the 10,441-ton American tanker Newhall Hills which caught fire in a collision north of the Dover Strait.

A second American tanker — the John La Large—was reported to have collided with an unidentified British fishing boat in heavy fog near treacherous Goodwin Sands. The fishing boat sank and lifeboats searched the area for survivors.

Heavy weather was blamed for both accidents. The Newhall Hills, which also was believed to have rammed a fishing boat, drifted helplessly while rescue craft searched for the blazing vessel.

The flames finally were extinguished and the crew was removed by a lifeboat from Ramsgate.

TRUMAN WILL STAY AT BEDSIDE OF AGED MOTHER

GRANDVIEW, Mo., May 24— Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said today that President Truman was unable to plan a return to Washington at the present time because of the seriousness of his mother's illness.

Ross said he had talked with Brig. Gen. Wallace Graham, the President's personal physician. Ross said the physician told him:

"Mother Truman's condition is not such that he feels he would be warranted in advising the President to return at this time."

LESNEVICH EASY WINNER IN HEAVY ELIMINATION

NEW YORK, May 24 — The coming of a new day brought light but not understanding today to the strange episode that got a time-exposure presentation in 59 seconds flat at the Garden last night.

That, as the tersely official records will show, was the elapsed time involved when Gus Lesnevich knocked Melio Bettina colder than a slab of enamel, by way of celebrating the premiere of the Joe Louis elimination sweepstakes.

Bettina, 10½ pounds heavier and 6-5 betting favorite, came out slowly, took a right, then went down for a nine count on a right cross. He survived another, after taking almost a 10 count, then passed out when Lesnevich clipped him again. Bettina never struck a blow.

Levi, who had been committed to the hospital by court order, was subsequently released to the custody of hospital officials. Levi managed to elude the deputies in the field for about 30 minutes before he was captured. He had fled from the Chillicothe institution earlier Friday.

Fall of the Northern Kingdom

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for May 25 is II Kings 5:1-15; 15:8-17:41; Isaiah 28:1-4, the Memory Verse being Psalm 46:1, "God is our refuge and strength, A very present help in trouble.")

"NOW NAAMAN, captain of the host of the king of Syria, was a great man with his master, and honorable, because by him the Lord had given deliverance until Syria; he was also a mighty man in valour, but he was a leper."

In one of the raids made by the Syrians, the soldiers had brought a little Israelite maiden as a captive, and she waited on Naaman's wife. "And she said unto her mistress, Would God my lord were with the prophet that is in Samaria! for he would recover him of his leprosy."

Someone told the master what the little girl had said, and the king of Syria wrote a letter to the king of Israel telling him that he, the king of Syria, was sending his servant, Naaman, to him to be cured of leprosy. The king of Israel read the letter and tore his robe, saying, "Am I God, to kill and to make alive, that this man doth send unto me to recover a man of leprosy? Wherefore consider I pray you, and see how he seeketh a quarrel against me."

When Elisha heard that the king had rent his clothes and thought the king of Syria was trying to pick a quarrel with him, he said, "Let him come now to me, and he shall know that there is a prophet in Israel."

Naaman Goes to Elisha

So Naaman came to Elisha with his horses and his chariot and gifts, and stood at Elisha's door. Now Elisha did not come down to see Naaman himself, but he sent a messenger to him, telling him to go to the river Jordan, wash himself in the water seven times, and he would be clean.

Naaman flew into a rage at this message. Probably he felt he had not been shown the proper respect due to one of his station because Elisha had not come to talk with him. "Behold, I thought, he will surely come out to me, and stand, and call on the name of the Lord his God, and strike his hand over the place, and recover the leper," he said.

And as for the river Jordan, why could he not wash in one of the rivers of Syria and be clean? They were much less muddy than the Jordan. However, his servants, who seem to have been fond of him, said, "My father, if the prophet had bid thee do some great thing, wouldest thou not have done it? How much rather then, when he saith to thee, Wash, and be clean."

That must have seemed like commonsense to Naaman, so he went to the river Jordan, dipped himself seven times in the water, and "His flesh came again like unto the flesh of a little child, and he was clean."

Naaman went back to Elisha and offered him gifts, but he would take nothing, so Naaman told him he would offer no more sacrifices to strange gods, but only to the Lord.

Fall of the Kingdom

This story of the healing of the captain by the power of God is the first part of our lesson; the rest deals with the fall of the northern kingdom because of the people's wickedness and disobedience to God. As we noted in our last lesson, Israel rose to its height in power and prosperity in the reign of Jeroboam II. This monarch was followed by his son, Zechariah, who was murdered after a six months' reign, by Shallum, who reigned for only one month and was killed by Menahem. At this time Tiglathpileser, king of Syria, invaded the kingdom of Israel and exacted an enormous tribute from the king of the now weakened empire. The king took the money from the wealthy men of his kingdom who had piled up fortunes when Jeroboam II was king.

Menahem was succeeded by his son, Pekahiah, who was assassinated by Pekah. Pekah opposed the Assyrians, but he was slain by Hoshea I and his followers. He was a tool of Assyria.

Isaiah, the prophet, prophesied the downfall of Israel, saying, "Woe to the crown of pride, to the drunkards of Ephraim, whose glorious beauty is a fading flower, which are on the head of the fat valleys of them that are overcome with wine! . . . The crown of the pride, the drunkards of Ephraim, shall be trodden under feet. And the glorious beauty, which is on the head of the fat valley, shall be a fading flower, and as the hasty fruit before the summer; which when he that looketh upon it seeth, while it is yet in his hand he eateth it up."

Hoshea was a wicked king, although not as bad as some of the others. It was during his reign that Israel fell. Hoshea was taken captive and held a hostage for the payment of tribute, and the hordes of Assyrians poured into Israel. Samaria was beseiged, and although it held out for three years, it was finally captured and the Israelites were carried off into slavery once more. This took place in 722 B. C.

In the southern states, the blooming magnolia is one of nature's most beauteous expressions. It represents life in its stage of fulfillment.

In many respects the human life may be compared with it. First a soul is born, then it is nurtured. Finally it reaches the period of its truest mission in life. The way a life is inclined by its early training determined the extent of its beauty and influence on the characters of others.

A child reared in the influence of the church and religion, attains the highest degree of beauty of character and accomplishment. Such as one growing into maturity and middle age, finds life's mysteries unfolding, its challenges successfully met.

As there is beauty in the magnolia blossom, so is there inspiration in a human life into which the Holy Spirit has come. Such a life may cause these whose influence touches, to glorify God.

As the beauty of a flower is determined by the care it receives in its early stages, so will the training of a child bring forth character that will find its fulfillment in service to its Creator and its fellow men. Such a growth is best begun and nurtured within the church. The House of God stands ready to answer man's challenges with a faith and promise capable of withstanding all of the assaults of temptation and sin.

Go to church Sunday and refresh yourself spiritually for the challenges the coming week has in store for you.

FOR CLARITY'S SAKE

AT LONG last a railroad timetable has been produced which anyone can understand. It is an arrangement of two cardboard discs with the information sandwiched between them. As the discs are moved an automatic calculator reveals arrival and departure times. The gadget forms a single unit, easily carried. Facts are simply stated. There are no more code markings to be interpreted, no more hunting for footnotes after asterisks, no injunctions to "read down" or to "read up".

This is indeed a boon to travelling humanity, and not a minor one, either. Perhaps if one railroad could figure out such a simplification, other roads can, too. And for this the public says, praises be.

One wonders why some one didn't think up such an aid to man sooner. And why other similar simplifications can't be made, too. Income tax forms, though somewhat improved, are still far too complicated. Most municipal codes are needlessly difficult to understand. Most lawyers' letters are also, and the directions that come with such things as washing machines and cameras.

The public has been long suffering. Perhaps this one time table reform may herald universal improvement and start a vogue for forthright informational service of all sorts.

WHAT IS EDUCATION?

HE IS AN educated man, says a visiting English educator, Sidney Wood, who can entertain a new idea, another person, and himself. He believes Jesus, Czechoslovakian Thomas Masaryk and Franklin Roosevelt met the three qualifications—as well as many more humble folk.

The definition hinges on what the word education means to Mr. Wood, who should know something about the subject as he has spent a good share of his life in the British ministry of education. His formula would permit a completely illiterate individual, who has had no formal schooling, to qualify as educated. There are many who will disagree, for this leaves out much that makes education vitally important to many people.

On the other hand, there are many people with college degrees and framed diplomas who would never pass this apparently simple test. What good, after all, is a framed diploma if the possessor cannot adapt his mind to new trends of thought, find a common meeting ground with other minds or keep himself from boredom? That short definition could start many a long discussion.

Somehow it is hard to get sympathetic over the troubles of motorists who have been buying new cars in a black market, and now are having a time to get the clear titles which they need for their license plates.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, May 24—An editor writes: "..stop quoting those people around Washington about what they think of the tax bill, the budget, the union reform bill and are doing on the sly. That is all very interesting, but we know those people. Their axes are all familiar. What I am paying for, is what you think. I don't care if you make a mistake once in a while. Unless I get some good judgment on Washington, what's wrong there, and what should be done about it, I will be in the same fix they are. . . ."

Alright, here is what I think about it. Don't get angry because the views cannot possibly conform to yours, they are bound to be mistaken in some particular. But as you suggest, you can pick up the propaganda tripe in free handouts from the interested parties, and you are paying for an honest, objective opinion and are entitled to it.

I think the exigencies of politics are working to nullify any national Democratic leadership. That is about the whole story. You must judge by Mr. Truman's actions he thinks he can coast into re-election if he only lets the Republicans get themselves into hotter and hotter water—and heats the water up a little himself wherever he can without getting caught. On the other side, the Republicans plainly think they can establish national leadership with their economizing, tax reduction and union reform bills, which really are rather mild when measured against the whole.

But the Republicans have for five months encountered opposition politics, which whittled down their proposals and now is culminating in threats that all or some will be lost by veto or nullification.

Thus while Mr. Truman's policy is to let the Republicans do it and his Democrats are actively preventing the Republicans from doing it if possible—you have had no affirmative leadership the last six months.

Now this situation should clear somewhat when the final conclusions on the three big points in the program become evident in the next few weeks. How much they clear depends to a considerable extent on how much is jointly assured by both parties. Congress is adjourning in July under law. Mr. Truman will remain as administrator of the Republican program, or whatever portion of it is left, after having been hammered down by political pressure. With both Mr. Truman and certain Republican leaders running for the presidency twelve critical months ahead of time, the prospects for joint leadership ahead may look rather dim. Indeed, we may be lucky if they do not succeed entirely in nullifying each other right up to election day.

That is what is wrong here.

What could be done about it? Many things. Actually a cessation of such premature politics in a joint endeavor to assert an affirmative leadership during this period of business readjustment would be about the best thing. Joint statements, speeches and above all, actions, are required. After this legislation is concluded and before congress adjourns, this might be possible. A change in the Gallup poll showing Mr. Truman he could not coast in would probably be more beneficial than you may suspect.

A curious feature about the present congress is that the controversial legislation has been in the interest of industry, but voted by representatives from farming districts.

DIET AND HEALTH

Penicillin Isn't a Cure-All

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

NOTHING about penicillin—not even the speed with which it works—is more astonishing to the average man than the great variety of diseases against which it is effective. The list is so long that many people mistakenly regard it as a cure-all.

This misunderstanding is easily cleared up if we stop to realize that the germs which penicillin knocks out so successfully can, and do, invade many different parts of the body, causing more or less serious disorders depending on the site of the attack. Thus the same germs which cause the relatively harmless boil when they become entrenched in tissues just beneath the skin can bring about a swift and deadly infection of the brain.

What Germs Checked

Today we know pretty well just what germs penicillin will hold in check. In general it is useful against staphylococci, streptococci, gonococci, meningococci and pneumococci whenever and wherever they set up their infections in the body.

It is also remarkably effective against a germ which seems to confine its harmful activities to the tissues of the mouth, where it causes Vincent's angina or trench mouth.

According to Dr. William S. Hoffman of Chicago, penicillin will combat this disorder whether taken by mouth, applied locally to an infected area or injected into a muscle. It would appear, however, that the latter method gives better results than either of the others alone in many cases. There are some reports which indicate that symptoms are relieved within six to nine hours after the treatment is started and that the germs which have caused the symptoms will have disappeared from the mouth within 48 hours.

Trench mouth causes such symptoms as ulcers or sores on the gums, tonsils and lining membrane of the mouth. The sores are painful, and often there is difficulty in chewing and swallowing. Sometimes fever is present.

When using the penicillin locally in this condition it may be employed as a spray or as lozenges or as a mouth wash. It even has been put into ice cream, which is allowed to melt in the mouth. A combination of both the local use and the injection method is thought by many doctors to give the best results.

Apical Infections

Penicillin has also been found useful in the treatment of what are known as apical infections. This means infections at the root of a tooth. Local application of the penicillin is not particularly effective. Better results are obtained by the injection of the penicillin into a muscle or by giving it by mouth.

If the germs causing the infection are lodged in dead tissue or dead bone or cannot be reached by the body fluids, a cure cannot be produced with the penicillin by this method. In such cases surgical treatment of the tooth is necessary. Dead tissue must be removed and, if an abscess has formed at the root of the tooth, the abscess must be drained. However, even in these cases the use of penicillin may lessen the infection and help keep the infection from spreading.

Of course, when penicillin is used for the treatment of dental conditions, the dentist must decide what amount should be employed and how it should be administered. But in all cases it is necessary to give it early enough, in large enough doses and for a long enough period of time.

STARS SAY—

For Saturday, May 24

THERE are most propitious auguries for advancement, progress, growth with substantial support and endorsements from those in high places, who may be friendly and generously inclined as long as affairs move in a harmonious, smooth and agreeable way. Any show of rancor, disagreement, argument or strife might swerve this into antogonism, contention and a sharp reversal of kindliness and cooperation, with keen disappointment even to the point of physical danger. Shun accident, violence.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of splendid prospects for advancement, progress and practical productive performance with hearty endorsement and substantial support from superiors, employers or those in authority. However, there is sign of enmity and unhappy withdrawal of all support should there be indulgence in ill-temper, strife, argument or other show of temperament or rash action. Disappointment and friction may follow with sharp reaction on the nervous or physical well being.

A child born on this day while ambitious and energetic with prospects of a successful and worthy career may be predisposed to argument, quarrels and rash acts to its detriment.

For Sunday, May 25

SUNDAY'S horoscope shows an auspicious and happy state of affairs generally, with the emphasis on holidays trips, social and romantic engagements, with sudden developments bringing to a climax many cherished hopes and wishes. Travel change and new relationships may prove thrilling and possibly sensational, bringing much joy if not carried to extremes. Needful business activities are also gratifying, but in all contacts keep within bounds of reason, prudence and poise.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of many advantages and openings for a prosperous, happy and eventful era, with desired change, new contacts, and kindly support from influential sources, both in business and purely personal associations. Good and surprising news may change plans and environs, with benefit to spirits and morale, but it would be wise to stop short of excesses, fatigue and extravagance of funds and energies.

A child born on this day has fine equipment for successful and happy life, with energy, ambition and social qualities. Its tendency to extravagance and over-doing might call for early supervision.

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO

PAGE HEARD the note of deep feeling, under the nonsense Rufus spoke, saw it in his eyes and was smitten with qualms for what she was doing. When, reaching the park, he swung into a deserted, graveled cul-de-sac, overlooking the lake, and stopped the car, she drew as far away from him as the seat permitted. "Wait, Rufus," she said faintly.

"Wait?"

"I mean—Rufus, why do you want me?"

He did not answer at once. He took her hand, opened it flat on his palm, looked down at it for a moment. "I haven't known many girls, Page. Oh, I've met a lot, but no one of them ever interested me. I suppose because I'd always had one in my mind, sort of an ideal, and I never saw her until I ran into you, that night of the wedding. It was as if you'd stepped out of my thoughts into flesh and bones."

"But Rufus, ideals are dangerous!"

"Good for measuring sticks, aren't they?"

"You don't know me, really!"

"You don't know me. It's fifty-fifty."

"I may disappoint you! I may not have any of the qualities you think I have—"

"Well, I'm what is known as a peculiar guy! But Page, we're starting with as good chances as are given to any! If we're always honest with each other—"

Honest. The word struck like a knife into Page's heart.

Rufus drew her to him. "You've been darned honest with me from the first, Page. I've seen the fight you've put up with yourself. You're a girl in a million. THE girl! MY girl." The last was a rough whisper, close to her ear. "Now—may I kiss you?"

She turned her face slowly up to his. It was white and frightened. He kissed her eyelids, her brow, then her mouth. A long kiss, with deep tenderness in its passion.

He loosened his hold of her reluctantly. "Now what?" he asked, with a slightly confused laugh. "Remember I've never been engaged before! I suppose the order is that I go to your father and mother and tell them I am planning to marry their daughter—"

"You'd better let me tell them," Page said, hastily.

"Why? What's there to it? What can they do about it?"

"Nothing, or not much. They are not going to like it," she finished, after a little hesitation.

"I'm not of your class, eh?" Rufus laughed as he said it, but his lips curled slightly. "I suppose if I could tell them that I had family scattered about in prominent places it'd be a different song entirely."

"It might. Rufus, they have their prejudices, just as you have yours! It's simply that they're on the other side. Father thinks you're too radical. He's read your columns on this trial. If—well, if some time you'd say it was your job, that you HAD to write them the way the Post wanted you to—" Her fingers tightened on his, a little appealingly.

"Which is quite true," Rufus finished, dryly. His eyes narrowed though he smiled down at her. "If it's going to make it easier for you, I'll use discretion when I'm with your father. After all, I can't expect to raid the palace without walking on tiptoe, can I?" He turned the ignition key, started the car. "But keep in mind, my dear, I've some pride of my own and it doesn't take to dust-eating."

• • •

"Almost nine, Di," Bill called to Diane, the morning after the evening of his mother's dinner. "But at that, I am not going to hurry." He got out of bed, stretched leisurely, thrust his feet into slippers and went into the bathroom.

Diane heard him whistling as he ran the shower. She was startled by his cheerfulness; last night's emotions lay on her like a dead weight.

Bill ate his breakfast with relish, lingered at the table, drinking a third cup of coffee. "How are your accounts, Di? I've time now to go over them with you, if you want me to."

"They're all right. I've quite a safe balance."

He laughed. "Hard little bargain driver, aren't you?"

"Probably I've inherited that from my father!"

"Well, wherever you get it, you're amazing. And I appreciate it, Di. I've seen the jam some fellows get into right at the start, from letting their wives spend every penny they earn. If Dean does take me into the firm it'll mean more salary and what do you say to putting the difference into the savings account?"

Diane said: "I think that would be a good plan."

Leaving, Bill turned at the door. "No work this evening!" He kissed her again. "You've been a darn good sport all these weeks, sweetheart!"

She stood in the window this morning, and watched him go down the street. "I'm amazing, thrifty, I save your money and I am a good sport! Oh, Bill, I want to be more than that!"

Later, shaking soap flakes into the dishpan, watching them froth and bubble, she thought: "Maybe today is the beginning." Now, knowing more about herself, about Bill, knowing there were things she did not know, about both herself and Bill. Her hands caught and held to the edge of the sink. "But, it's like—like finding your way in the dark!"

Lois called her, in the middle of the morning. "Play today, Di?"

Diane began a flimsy excuse which Lois interrupted. "Di, it isn't what Vicky said the other day, is it? I know that was raw, but that's Vicky! Anyway, she won't be out there. She's gone to Muskoka for the weekend."

"It isn't Vicky. It's simply that it's too hot!"

"Diane Farrell, it's the first time I've heard you say that. We could go into the pool before and after! And if we want to get anywhere in the qualifying we've got to practice—"

"Where's Danny? He'll play with with you!"

"Danny suggested the three of us play—"

"Well, just count me out. Watch your left wrist and you'll arrive."

"Di," wailed Lois, "you sound as if you never were coming out again!"

Diane laughed that aside. "Don't be a dope." Hung up, when Lois finally abandoned her pleading, with a little feeling that it was only the beginning. Within a few days, as soon as Thad came back, she would have to tell them she could not go on in their movie.

"What shall we do this evening?" Bill asked at dinner. He had pronounced it a very good dinner. "Everything I like!"

Yes, everything he liked.

"What do you want to do?"

"Why not have someone in for bridge? I might call Carl Meadows and ask him and his wife to come over."

"Yes, call him."

They came. They were a quiet couple, older than Bill and Diane by ten years or more. With his arm over Bill's shoulders, Carl said to Diane: "You've reason to be very proud of this young man of yours, Mrs. Arden!"

"Yes, I realize I have," Diane answered.

Mrs. Meadows was outspoken in her admiration of the apartment. "It's so beautifully new! Our house has become dreadfully battered and it's always noisy! We have three big boys, you know, Mrs. Arden. Just lately Butch, he's Carl, Junior, has taken up the cornet. You can imagine what that is like! You and Bill must come over very soon. I've wanted to ask you, but I knew there wasn't a chance till that trial was over. We didn't dare even call!"

"We'd like to come," Diane said.

Mrs. Meadows spoke of it again when they were leaving. "Dinner, some evening. I'll call you."

"They're fine people," Bill said with enthusiam, folding the cardtable. "I'm glad they've asked us over. Friendly relations outside the office helps in a firm—"

Diane swung around to him. "You mean—"

"Dean said something today. It wasn't official, but I can feel reasonably sure of it."

"But why didn't you tell me?"

"Nothing to tell until it's signed on the dotted line."

"No, there isn't!"

She went with the tray of empty coffee cups to the kitchen, began to wash the cups, the ash trays.

Bill called to her. "Let the things Go, Di! Come along to bed!"

Diane heard the ardor in his voice; she closed the cupboard door, leaned her forehead against it, fighting a strange half-shrinking in her flesh.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T BLAME THE LUCK

IT IS easy enough to blame your hard luck when some move by the defense keeps you from making your contract. But a bit of reflection may show you could have countered the move and brought the bacon home anyway. The adaptable player is prepared to handle a crucial suit in one way if a particular card is led, but in a different manner if another card is chosen by the opener. No Trump game contracts especially depend on such factors.

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	Pass	1 ♥	1 ♠
1 NT	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 NT

By slightly different methods that game contract was reached at a lot of tables in a duplicate, a spade being opened in each case. Where the worst card, the K, was chosen, South won, drove out the heart A, then made either two or three extra tricks, dependent on whether East scored his spade Q immediately or led low to the J.

Where the spade 8 was led, the Q forced the A and, after the heart A won, West got two spade tricks. The suit, however, was blocked because the 10 was higher than any spade East retained.

At one table West led the spade 10, to begin unblocking the suit. The Q was won by the A. When the heart A won, East returned the spade 5. South put in the J, which was won by the K. West then led his 8 to East's 9, whereupon East set the contract with his spade remainders.

South, after being the only man beaten in that contract, bemoaned the hard luck of having the 10 led against him. He could have made the game, however, if he had played low on the second spade. West could have won that with the 8, but the K would have blocked the suit.

"But suppose," asked South, "East had pulled a fast one by leading low when holding the K; then I would have had to play the J at once." He had something there, but couldn't properly say he had no chance to make his contract.

Under what circumstances should a player bid another playable suit after his partner had shown adequate support for one of the majors?

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE .... Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up to a morning of sunshine, the second in succession. Lived right up to advice given me many, many years ago by my first editor: Believe nothing you hear and only half of what you see. So, did stick my hand outside to test for rain. No rain. Worked myself up to boiling point again over the ruling of that Third U. S. circuit court of appeals down Philadelphia way. The one in which the judges decreed that union officials may remain on jobs even when war veterans have seniority rights over them. Seems as though the jurists felt the union officials enjoyed "preferred seniority" because it was "highly essential" for them to be on the job to look after the interests of union members. I thought our politicians were doing a good enough job in that respect.

Downtown to thank Charlie Gilmore for an interesting afternoon the day before. Rotarians inspected the Columbus and Southern Ohio power plant in the north part of the county. Saw $6,000,000 worth of machinery and more than a half hundred men working to make it possible for me to flip a switch and get light. Heard a lot of fact and figures, some of which stuck: A pump that throws 40,000 gallons of water a minute, 925 tons of coal used every day to generate power, storage for 85,000 tons of coal, 90,000 KW output an hour, 2,400 degree firebox heat producing 140,000 pounds of steam an hour. Spent an hour on the inspection tour and at the end told Charlie there was just one thing I did not fully comprehend. Just a simple little thing like, "how do you get electricity out of that thing?"

Jack Winship was along. Remember him? Jack installed the first power plant in Circleville, in the alley back of Stone's grill. Later moved it to where the present sub station is situated. A far cry from Jack's first plant that modern one to the north. And some $2,000,000 in improvements now in progress there. Jack understood a lot more than the rest of us about the machinery he was seeing.

Chatted with Charlie Walters who congratulated me on living in a neighborhood that is turning toward Ayrshire cattle. That's George. That cement-eating bull still is alive, but "feeling mighty low." Passed the time of day with Harry Graef and waved to Mayor Ben. Talked with Chief Buggs and learned the night had been quiet. Bill Lanman, who does such a good job of operating the Kroger store, told of a big take of crappies at Wayne lake. Bill is clever with that fly rod.

Saw Jay Clark packing a "Mae West" life preserver and knew the time not far away when he will be testing out that new speed outboard motor he acquired during the Winter. There's speed.

Home in the late afternoon for a session with the lawnmower before dinner. Then a short drive through the twilight and a quiet evening that was ended at a reasonable hour.

Gay Junior-Senior Prom Held In Memorial Hall

CHS Graduates Are Honor Guests At Annual Affair

Junior-Senior prom held in Memorial hall Friday evening, was one of the most colorful of the traditional events given during the graduation activities in recent years. The outstanding social affair is an annual courtesy of the junior class for the pleasure of the seniors of Circleville high school.

Beautifully decorated Memorial hall had an artistic arrangement of streamers of silver and green crepe paper forming a canopy ceiling to a backdrop of streamers. Entrance to the floor was through an archway made of twisted strands of green. Surrounding the room were many tables covered in silver with strips of green down the center. Placed at the back of the bandshell in huge silver letters, as a compliment to the graduates, was the year date "47' on a green background.

At the base of the platform, reaching from each side was G-O-O-D - 47 - L-U-C-K. On the walls around the room was "Junior-Senior Prom 47-48" encrusted in glistening silver. Soft colored lights cast a pale glow through the latticed ceiling, over the group as they gaily danced.

WHITE COATS of the male attire formed a perfect background for Circleville's young debutants in stunning formals. Beautifully gowned for the occasion, the girls were smart in their formals, the flowered cottons showing a pleasing contrast to the more conventional silks, taffetas and nets. In an array of hues from white, dainty pastels and the deeper brilliant shades, in the very latest mode of madam fashion, they formed a vivid rainbow of colors. Some of the frocks were of a period design — others with buffant skirts and sweetheart necklines —or the smart tailored dinner gowns. Nosegays of carnations, gardenias and roses and a few orchids were to be seen on the young women.

Johnny Carl and his well known orchestra from Columbus played from 9 to 12, repeating favorite selections again and again to please the lively group. Orchestra featured a vocalist. Highlight of the evening was the presentation of Miss Teressa Blubaugh, member of the junior class, who sang "Anniversary Song" accompanied by the orchestra.

JUNIOR CLASS members were hosts for the social evening, and were in charge of all arrangements. Committee members responsible for the gala evening were, decoration, Paul Smallwood, Miss Edna Maynard, co-chairmen, Carl Radcliff, Miss Faye Allen, Miss Lois Burgoon, Miss Bonnie Hill, Robert Eccard, Robert Huffer, Robert Boggs and Martin Garner; program, Miss Virginia Wise, chairman and Jack Coffland; music, Robert Johnson, chairman and Robert Shaw; refreshments, Miss Wanda Raymond, chairman, Donald Beck, Miss Elayne Baker, Pauline Dawson, Jack Pettit and Richard Glass; Invitations, Miss Rosemary Stonerock, chairman, Miss Patricia Metzger and Miss Lucille Stambaugh.

SHERBERT floating in fruit punch and refreshments were served buffet style from a long table at one side of the room. Assisting in serving were Mrs. Paul Johnson, Mrs. Fred Cook, Mrs. Avery Purcell and Fred Watts.

Balcony was filled to capacity with interested spectators. Attractive silver and green programs tied with gold cords, were soon completely filled for the many dances. Tables were arranged in the Post room for games for the convenience of those that did not choose to dance.

Chaperones included the faculty and board of education members. In this group were Mr. and Mrs. J. Wray Henry, Frank Fisher, John R. Daugherty, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest T. Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Hamlyn, Fred Watts, Miss Marjorie Oyer, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rader, Miss Margaret Rooney, Miss Margaret Mattinson, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brown, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Leist, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Eagleson, Mrs. Howard B. Moore, Miss Florence Brown, Mr. and Mrs. John Chilcote, Steve Brudzinski, Mrs. Helen Brown and Miss Hazel Core.

MIZE AHEAD OF BABE RUTH'S HOME RUN PACE

Giants Take National Lead; Indians Beaten In 12-Inning Game

NEW YORK, May 24—Johnny Mize of the New York Giants today is seven games ahead of Babe Ruth's home run pace in 1927, when the bambino set a record by whacking a total of 60 homers.

The big first baseman hit his 11th homer of the campaign yesterday 20 years, to the day, after Babe got his No. 11 on May 23, 1927.

If Big Jawn could play in the Boston park all season he would crack Ruth's record by a mile. When Mize and his playmates visited the Hub last month, he clouted the ball over the right field fence in his last three times up. Yesterday's drive over the garden wall came in his second time at bat.

* * *

THE VICTORY accomplished three big things for the Giants, in addition to boosting Mize's already healthy batting average. It put them in first place in the National League, ahead of the idle Chicago Cubs, made it certain that rookie Larry Jansen is a dependable starting pitcher, and convinced the Giants that they can beat any club in the league.

The New Yorkers had made mincemeat out of six other N. L. clubs but had absorbed two terrific beatings from the Braves in Boston this year after dropping eight out of 11 in the Hub last season. Jansen's six-hit, 8-to-1 win yesterday, his third triumph of the season without a setback, obliterated the Boston bugaboo, temporarily at least.

Brooklyn staked the Phillies to a 4-0 lead in a night game and then nosed out the Quakers, 5 to 4. The Dodgers advanced to third place, passing the Braves, due to the wildness and poor fielding of Philadelphia's pitchers.

In another night game the tail-end St. Louis Cardinals made it two straight over Pittsburgh, which constitutes a winning streak for the world champions in these parlous times. George Munger held the Bucs to six hits and blanked them, 2 to 0.

* * *

IN THE AMERICAN League the pace-setting Detroit Tigers, already loaded with gilt-edged pitching, uncovered another stellar hurler when Al Benton, now ready for regular duty, started a game for the first time this season and subdued the Chicago White Sox, 5 to 2.

Allie Reynolds of the Yanks, for the second time this season, hurled a two-hit shutout against Boston's Red Sox, blanking them 9 to 0. Charley Keller's ninth homer put him only one behind Ted Williams, who in turn trails Mize by one circuit clout.

The Athletics routed Washington's slipping Senators, 8 to 1, in a night game.

The American League race is so close that the circuit now has six first-division clubs. This novel situation is due to the fact that the Yankees, Athletics and White Sox all are tied for fourth place.

In the only other game played, a night contest at Cleveland, the Indians lost to St. Louis, 5 to 3, when the Browns' scored two runs in the 12th inning. The Indians rallied in the 8th to tie the score after Robinson's homer in the 7th with none on.

ASHVILLE REDS AT CHILLICOTHE

Feature Game Of SCO League Expected When Papers Bid For Lead

Ashville Reds will put on a first place battle with Chillicothe at the Mead park there in the feature game of the South Central Ohio Baseball league.

The Reds now hold undisputed first place with Chillicothe anxious to regain the top spot the club occupied at the end of the last season. The Papermakers lost their opener at Lancaster, but have been going good since. Ashville won over the Glassmen two weeks ago.

Both clubs are expected to send southpaws to the mound. Leonard Hornsby seems to be Manager Carl Gulick's choice while Everett Barnett, Mead planner, is expected to use either Roy Bartlett or Don Pollard.

* * *

LANCASTER Glassmen make their first invasion of the western side of the league Sunday, meeting the Jeffersonville Cubs, now tied for fourth. Lancaster holds third place.

Washington Eagles will visit Grove City to help the Dodgers stage their delayed opening game ceremonies. Lefty "Chuck" Graves is beng counted on to pitch Grove City to a victory in their first game at home.

Jamestown can climb out of the cellar Sunday by winning over Greenfield. The Athletics surprised last week by giving Lancaster a good game before bowing 3-0.

26 SPOTS OPEN AT SPEEDWAY; ASPAR COMING

INDIANAPOLIS, May 24 — Twenty-six positions were still open in the starting lineup for the Memorial Day 500-mile race as the third day of time trials opened today at the Indianapolis motor speedway.

Although only seven cars qualified last Saturday and Sunday, it was believed that at least a dozen cars would be added to the starting lineup after trials this week-end.

An influx of cars and drivers to the track began shortly after an agreement was reached yesterday between the Speedway management and the American Society of Professional Automobile Racing. The agreement raised the prize fund money to an estimated $132,000.

ESMERALDA 9, RICHARDS WIN LEAGUE GAMES

Slugging Features Night Circuit Program In Ted Lewis Park

A hotly-contested slugging match and a walkaway were staged by Night Softball league teams Friday in Ted Lewis park.

Esmeralda won the first game 15-13 from Container Corporation. Then Richards Implement thumped VFW 26-1.

* * *

IN THE OPENER Esmeralda took a 6-0 first inning lead. Container came back with five runs in the second inning and moved ahead with two more in the third. The Canners tied it up in the last of the third but Container scored four in the fourth to take an 11-7 lead. Esmeralda got two back in the fourth and three more in the fifth to go ahead 12-11. Container got two in the sixth and held a 13-12 lead until the last half of the seventh when Esmeralda scored three times.

Esmeralda had 14 hits, one a homer by C. Smith. Container's 13 hits included homers by Ramey and Lutz.

* * *

GUY EASTER struck out the first seven batters to face him in the second game. He then got an assist on the 8th batter, put-out on the ninth and struck out the next three. No VFW batter reached first until Immelt's error in the fifth. Easter had 13 strikeouts.

Easter allowed a total of three hits. Richards got 13 off Ed Brungs. Fred Immelt led with three for four.

Yesterday's Answer

Broadcasting company did both. It took listeners, comfortably lounging in their spacious living rooms, into the squalid homes of a slum area in New York's lower east side.

The first half of the hour-long documentary broadcast was a report on conditions in the stinking, garbage-littered tenements. Narrator George Hicks and Writer Robert S. Greene had spent days there, talking to the slum dwellers "in the little crooked houses, many without running water, 60 people for two toilets, dumbwaiters locked and bolted because rats make their home there."

* * *

THEY SAT on bar stools and asked drinkers about conditions in the neighborhood. "It seems that slum dwellers don't like to stay home at night. . .there's no room for company." One man was quite drunk and his voice became bitter, almost vicious, when he said, "what's the matter with our homes? We have no homes to live in. In my work, I've got to take a bath every night. We haven't got the water!"

None of these conversations was a dramatized rehash of what Hicks and Greene had found on their sordid trip. They had recorded the conversations as they occurred, and the sound effects were a squalling baby in its crib among "all the garbage". The mother pointed it out as she showed them around her quarters. "Here's a double mattress for a double bed. . .if we had the place for a double bed."

It took some time for Hicks and Greene to get the tenement dwellers to talk honestly with them, to convince the people there was a purpose in making such a broadcast, because down on the lower east side, they don't like snoopers.

* * *

ABC'S PURPOSE was to "come to some conclusions about the varying ways the problem can be solved." On the second half of the broadcast, three men, experts in building planning, took "the three biggest plans that have been proposed" and debated their merits.

One favored a system of public housing: "we can clear every slum in America in 10 years if we devote three days cost of World War II annually for that purpose."

The second advocated semi-public housing as a solution: "we need all the subsidized houses we can get and all the private houses we can get. There is a middle ground for those too well off for subsidizing and too poor for private housing."

The third argued for private housing: "the problem of providing adequate housing and cleaning up the slums is so big that only the greatest giant in the world can solve it, and that is private enterprise."

What echoed longest with listeners was the plaintive voice of the women, whose identity might be anyone in any slum area of any city in this country, who said, "I brought my baby home from the hospital and a rat bit it and it died five days later."

Tolerance theme of the Superman radio series is being carried to the pulpit. The minister of the Methodist Church in Greenwich, Connecticut, unable to deliver his sermon Sunday, May 18 because of an important out-of-town conference, invited Clayton "Superman" Collyer to substitute for him. The field is not entirely strange to Collyer as he has been a Sunday School teacher for many years.

SAmmy Kaye, eager to encourage bandleaders of the next generation, is running Saturday "So You Want to Lead a Band" contests for children under 12. They will continue during his present theater tour of the mid-west. Children from the audience are called upon to conduct the Swing and Swayers with prizes including bicycles, dolls, scooters, baseball gloves and other similar items. These shows have been so successful that Kaye is contemplating a children's "So You Want to Lead a Band" radio show to be run in addition to his current feature for adults.

NEW YORK, May 24—People who live in the slums don't like well-dressed strangers snooping around their evil-smelling corridors and tramping their rotting floorboards and sitting on their shaky furniture.

Those who live in well-kept homes with a patch of grass and an apple tree in the back yard don't like to talk about the poor folks crammed together in their own city's tenement district.

Memorial Day Services Planned In Circleville And County

NAVY RECRUITER WILL SPEAK AT CEMETERY HERE

Reber Hill Speaker To Be Col. Grimm; Graves To Be Decorated

Memorial Day will be widely observed May 30 in the Circleville area and the annual observance of the holiday will begin early this year with special services Sunday in many Circleville churches.

Special services will be held in the First Evangelical United Brethren church and at 10:15 a. m. Sunday members of various veterans' and patriotic organizations will assemble in front of the church. These include the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American Veterans, and their auxiliaries, and Daughters of Union Veterans, and Daughters of the American Revolution.

Industry and business will come to a virtual standstill in Circleville on Memorial Day next Friday in memory of the nation's military heroes.

* * *

GRAVES WILL be decorated in all of the cemeteries in the Circleville area on the holiday. At several cemeteries special memorial rites will be conducted.

Edward C. Ebert, adjutant of the Circleville post of the American Legion, said that war veterans in uniform will assemble at 9 a. m. Friday and will march from the downtown district to Forest cemetery where appropriate ceremonies will be held.

Principal speaker will be Chief Carpenter's Mate R. B. Eddy, of the U. S. Navy. Taps will be sounded. The graves of veterans will be decorated.

* * *

AT 2 P. M. Friday special Memorial Day services will be held at the Reber Hill cemetery under auspices of the Reber Hill Memorial Association of which Wilbur E. Brinker is president. Music will be provided by the Ashville High school band. Mrs. Martin Cromley is chairman of the program committee. Colonel Henry F. Grimm, ordnance inspector at Fort Hayes and a veteran of World War II who served in the Pacific theater of war, will be the principal speaker.

Colonel Grimm will also speak at morning memorial services at Harrison township cemetery near South Bloomfield.

* * *

JUDGE William D. Radcliff of the Pickaway County common pleas court, will be the chief speaker at services to be conducted at 2 p. m. Memorial Day in the Methodist church at Darbyville under sponsorship of the Muhlenberg Township Memorial Association. Music will be provided by the Lancaster band. The services at the cemetery will be directed by the Henry Page Folsom, Jr. Post, No. 3331, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Circleville. Members of the WSCS will serve dinner in the school auditorium at noon. Harry L. Melvin is president of the Muhlenberg Township Memorial Association.

In observance of Memorial Day all city and county and federal offices will be closed Friday in Circleville, along with banks and financial institutions, most stores and factories, and the library. There will be no deliveries of mail excepting special delivery letters, and the Sunday schedule of mail pickups will be observed.

Production Stepped Up At Horton Plant Here

Although production has been stepped up at the enlarged and improved plant of the Horton Manufacturing Division of the Aviation Corporation of America, in Circleville, it was learned Saturday that the factory is not included among several AVCO plants now being inspected by members of the AVCO board of directors.

Horton officials said they did not anticipate such an inspection by AVCO officials until more of a record of production has been built up in the Circleville factory.

* * *

TOP EXECUTIVES of AVCO met in regular board session Thursday at Cincinnati and the meeting was followed by an inspection of plants in the Cincinnati area including the Crosley radio manufacturing and broadcasting facilities, and the Crosley refrigerator plant at Richmond, Ind.

Inspection of the American Central factory at Connersville, Ind., was made Friday. The AVCO directors announced approval of plans for expansion of the New Idea plants at Coldwater, O., and at Sandwich, Ill., and the Lycoming and Spencer Heater factories at Williamsport, Pa.

* * *

SINCE the factory property of the Silex corporation in Circleville was purchased March, 1946, at public auction, for a named price of $70,000, the factory has been enlarged and improved, and the floor space increased from 25,000 square feet to more than 30,000 square feet. Almost one year ago the Civilian Production Administration's Columbus district office approved the Horton application for permission to spend $25,000 for new construction work at the Circleville plant. The work was slowed somewhat by difficulties in obtaining materials.

Inside walls were removed, the structure was re-roofed, and thus a solid non-U-shaped floor space was provided. The plant is situated at Clinton street and Half avenue. The one-story building was erected in 1926 on a 2.14 acre site. It has a sprinkler system and facilities including a five-car railroad siding.

* * *

COMPANY officials said it is planned to steadily increase the output of the Circleville factory which is producing parts for a unique type garage door which is sold in the nationwide market. The device and appurtenances enable a motorist to drive up to his garage, press a button on the car's instrument panel, and thus automatically open the garage door, simultaneously lighting the light in the garage. Leaving the garage the motorist merely presses another button in his home, and the garage door closes automatically and the garage light is extinguished simultaneously.

* * *

ELECTRICAL impulse is the answer to the operation of the Horton device, and the gadget has merited favorable comment throughout the nation. The device is known as the Avco automatic door opener, serving as a "private doorman" for the car owner and his entire family.

Company officials pointed out that the device can be quickly and easily installed on any type of garage door.

NEWS Behind the NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

Democracy works at its best in cooperative non-political ventures (see foreign policy, see war cooperation). Nullifying political tactics merely serve the vigorous anti-Democrats in this period of world crisis. For instance, the labor leader may somewhat justly think himself shrewd and successful for having killed certain reforms of union abuses, but if he makes the reform fail of effectiveness (as demanded in general by the electorate and two-thirds of congress) he actually serves only his enemies. Such tactica actually instigate strong arm tactics to force unions to produce, to keep prices in, to provide just economies and fair taxes. Indeed they might cause popular opinion to swing to force to accomplish its defeated will. Such union leadership would, in such a case, find itself ultimately unwise and shortsighted, blinded by concentration of an immediate objective which might lose its whole game.

As for the Republicans, many of their leaders have been going back to ways which were old at the time of the first Roosevelt, not realizing the popular demand of the people in the last election for some new action to invigorate democracy, and inspire it to work more efficiently, because it certainly was not working under OPA. Also the Republicans do not seem to be familiar with the tactics of pressure groups here, because this is the first term for most of them. Anyway their spreaded position in congress makes national leadership difficult, without administrative cooperation, and in the face of hot politics.

The exigencies of politics do not require that there be no leadership. I would say both parties had better stop running for election a year ahead of time as a first step.

Opinions expressed by the writer in the column are the views of the author and not necessarily those of the Circleville Herald.

New Wave Of Violence Sweeps Over India

SIX KILLED IN LATEST RIOTS AMONG HINDUS

English Going Ahead With Plans To Withdraw From Country

NEW DELHI, May 24 — At least six persons were killed and scores wounded today in fresh communal violence that swept India today while British leaders studied plans to withdraw from the country.

Forty Sikhs, armed with bombs and small arms, were reported to have attacked the Moslem village of Rasulpura in the outskirts of Amritsar. Five villagers were killed and 12 wounded in the attack.

The Bombay government announced that one person was killed and 13 injured in a new wave of communal rioting in the central part of the city.

Police in the early morning hours fired 11 rounds into rioters who started a knife attack in the crowded Null bazaar.

Meanwhile, at New Delhi, Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru bottled Mohammed Ali Jinnah's demands for a trans-Hindustan corridor from his proposed Moslem state of Pakistan.

The congress party leader contemptuously referred to Jinnah's claims as "fantastic" and "absurd."

OFFICERS CHECK DEAF MUTE'S ATTACK STORY

PORTSMOUTH, O., May 24—The Scioto county sheriff's office checked today the reported confession of a 35-year-old deaf-mute that he attacked and robbed a Dry Run storekeeper.

Sheriff's Deputy Burl Justice said the suspect, Hermie Caudill, Salyersville, Ky., scrawled on a blackboard an admission that he robbed Newton Rice, 66, of $750 after beating and stabbing him yesterday afternoon.

Caudill, said to be a fugitive from the La Grange, Ky., penitentiary since 1941, was captured by a posse in the Scioto river bottoms near Portsmouth after a four-hour search. Justice said he offered no resistance.

Rice was in "favorable" condition in a Portsmouth hospital. He suffered from shock and loss of blood. Following the attack, he chased his assailant until he collapsed from loss of blood.

The storekeeper received knife wounds in the chest, forehead and near his left eye.

Justice said Caudill claimed he did not want to harm Rice but was hungry.

UTILITIES MAY BE SEIZED IN FRENCH DISPUTE

PARIS, May 24—Reports that the government has framed a military - civilian mobilization plan to cope with a threatened utility strike brought talk today of a left-wing socialist move to force resignation of Premier Ramadier.

Paris newspapers said the Ramadier government, intent on preserving its economic stabilization program, has decided to commandeer gas and electric power workers in the event the threatened strike materializes Wednesday.

According to the Paris Presse, the government will not hesitate to call in troops and military school students to replace striking workers to assure continued functioning of vital public services and prevent possible turmoil.

PROMOTING PENSION increases from the French government, these French war invalids stage a sitdown strike on a Paris street. The demonstration is one of many in the country which is being ripped by a series of riots and rallies protesting the government's economic controls.

GARSSON MONEY USED MAY SAYS

Former Solon Awaits More Cross-Examination In Conspiracy Case

WASHINGTON, May 24 — Ex-Rep. Andrew J. May (D) Ky., rested today, his strength sapped by six days of interrogation on his wartime dealings with the munitions - making Garsson brothers.

The aging, ailing former congressman was preparing for a continuation Monday of Prosecutor William Paisley's searching cross-examination, which has already led him to admit:

1. That he used money given him by Henry and Murray Garsson to pay income taxes, hotel and store bills and other personal expenses.

2. That he was in the habit, while in congress, of borrowing against future salary checks when he needed money.

• • •

THE ADMISSIONS were made to a federal district court jury which for five weeks has been hearing the war fraud conspiracy trial against May and the Garssons.

May steadfastly maintained, however, that whenever he used Garsson money for himself, somehow or another he put a matching amount of his own money into the Cumberland Lumber company, which he said he ran for the Garssons.

The government charges that the company, located in May's home town of Prestonsburg, Ky., was used to hide payment of $53,000 in bribes to the congressman for favors he did the Garssons while house military committee chairman.

• • •

IT WAS during questioning by the soft - spoken, hard-hitting Paisley that May showed his first real expression of bitterness since the trial began.

He denounced government investigators for "pillaging" his bank accounts while checking up on his dealing with the Garssons and then, in a voice choked with emotion, he said:

"They even went to the extent of learning how many flowers were sent to my wife's funeral."

ENIWETOK PLANNED

PHILADELPHIA, May 24 — The invasion of Eniwetok island was planned 20 years before the second world war, according to Gen. A. A. Vandegrift, commandant of the U. S. Marine Corps. General Vandegrift told a Marine reserve corps officers dinner last night that the plan was worked out in 1921 "in event of emergency."

Smooth-bore Cannon To Be Anti- Aircraft Weapon

WASHINGTON, May 24 — The Army's search for anti-aircraft weapons that can cope with modern high speed airplanes turned today to one of the oldest types of firearms — the smooth-bore cannon.

But the smooth-bore anti-aircraft gun to be demonstrated at Aberdeen, Md., ordnance proving ground this week is a far cry from the old smooth-bore cannons of the Civil War and earlier periods.

Its projectile travels at a speed of 5,000 to 6,000 feet per second, ten times as fast as early cannon, and nearly twice as fast as the most efficient rifled guns yet produced.

Accuracy — the lack of which turned ordnance men to rifled bores—is obtained through the use of fins on the projectile. And some British experiments with smooth-bore guns firing finned projectiles have achieved a degree of rotation for accuracy.

• • •

THE DEVELOPMENT of 600-mile-per-hour airplanes has made like development of anti-aircraft a "must" with Army ordnance. Much is being done with guided missiles, but ordnance experts say that the day of the missile that will follow an airplane automatically is probably 15 years away.

And while the work on missiles goes ahead, so does the work on anti-aircraft guns.

The smooth-bore finned projectile is one of these developments. Ordnance officers point out that with its terrific velocity, the finned projectile can reach an airplane at 20,000 feet in just half the time an ordinary shell would.

At present, the smooth-bore gun has disadvantages in slowness of loading and firing, but ordnance hopes to overcome these problems.

WATTS PLEADS NOT GUILTY IN SHOOTING CASE

COLUMBUS, O., May 24 — Joseph E. Watts, 37-year-old Columbus taxicab driver, pleaded innocent when he was arraigned today on a manslaughter charge filed by the father of a youth shot near Watts' west-side home.

Watts was accused in charges filed by the father of 14-year-old Donald Dethy. The boy was killed by a shotgun blast Sunday night when allegedly "prowling" near Watts' home.

Watts told police he meant to fire over the youth's head after he failed to stop when ordered to do so. The cab driver said he had called out three times for the youth to stop or he would fire.

LEGION AND VFW UNITS SELLING POPPIES HERE

Many Circlevilleans wore "twin" poppies Saturday in tribute to the nation's heroes in World Wars I and II.

Two separate groups of girls were selling the little red flowers on the streets, in stores, offices, and shops, and also house-to-house.

One group represented the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the second sold poppies on behalf of the American Legion.

Proceeds from the poppy sales will be used for rehabilitation of war veterans and their dependents.

APPEALS COURT SUSTAINS DILTZ CONVICTION HERE

Conviction of Orin Diltz, 24, serving a one to seven year term in the Ohio Penitentiary for grand larceny in the looting of the parked car of Vaden Couch in Circleville, was sustained Saturday by unanimous ruling of the three judges of the Fourth District Court of Appeals.

The judges are Roy J. Gillen, Wellston; Russell K. McCurdy, Portsmouth; and Verner E. Metcalf, Marietta. The ruling was received at the office of Clerk of Courts Arthur L. Wilder.

The sentence was imposed on Diltz by Common Pleas Judge William D. Radcliff after a jury Feb. 5 had found him guilty.

Meanwhile, trial of George Clifton, scheduled for Monday, has been postponed until Monday, June 2. Prosecutor Kenneth E. Robbins, who announced the postponement, said Clifton's inability to get counsel had forced postponement of the hearing.

'TURNAROUND' WARNING ISSUED BY POLICE CHIEF

Police Chief W. F. McCrady Saturday warned motorists against turning their autos on Court and Main street.

Chief McCrady said revised city ordinances prohibit making turns on Court or Main streets, except at alley intersections. U-turns are prohibited at all traffic lights.

Several motorists were stopped Saturday while making U-turns close to streets, the chief said.

FARMER FIGHTS CONVICTION ON FISHING CHARGE

Robert Chester Fined $40 For Spearing Carp; Four Others Arrested

Jailed for refusing to pay fines and costs totaling $51.20 for spearing two carp in the waters of the Scioto river Friday night, Robert Chester, 45, Route 2, Williamsport, said Saturday he had retained Attorney Tom A. Renick as counsel and planned to fight the case against him.

Chester, who said that 45 acres of his farm are as yet unplowed and that the livestock on his farm need his attention, was arrested by Fish and Game Protector Chalmer Burns, of Fayette county, and Burns charged Chester with violating Section 1420 of the Ohio General Code.

Chester pleaded not guilty before Justice of the Peace Harold O. Eveland shortly after his arrest Friday night. Burns filed two affidavits against Chester—one for each carp. Following a hearing Justice Eveland found Chester guilty. He imposed a fine of $25 and costs of $5.60 on one count and $15 and $5.60 costs on the second charge.

Chester refused to pay and he was committed to the Pickaway county jail.

• • •

ONE OF FIVE men taken into custody on similar charged Friday night by Fish and Game Protectors Burns and Clarence Francis of Circleville, Chester declared that he was snagging the carp with a pitchfork merely for sport, that he had intended to throw the fish back, and he pronounced them non-edible.

The four other men arrested each paid fines and costs.

Game Protector Burns arrested Sterley Beavers, Route 1, Orient, for attempting to spear fish in the Scioto river with a pitchfork in violation of Section 1420. Justice Eveland fined Beavers $15 and $4.80 costs.

DAYTON, O., May 24—George K. Zavakos, 59, Dayton candy company owner and bowling alley proprieter, was shot to death early today by two men in front of his home.

Police said neighbors told them the gunmen apparently were waiting for Zavakos to return home. He had just alighted from a station wagon when he was shot.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hussey, who live across the street from Zavakos, said two shots were fired, after which the gunmen fled in a two-colored automobile.

Police reported the victim had more than $1,100 in cash on his person.

He died en route to a hospital.

BERRY JAM IS WASTED NEAR MT. STERLING

Truck load of strawberries became jam Friday in Route 62 three miles south of Mt. Sterling —and it was not because of the rainy weather, either.

Highway patrolmen reported Marion E. Denning, Bowling Green, Ky., swerved his truck to avoid collision with one driven by Milton W. Trabill, Mt. Sterling, but the Kentucky truck struck the rear of Trabill's truck and overturned.

Neither driver was injured but berries valued at $1,980 were spilled over the highway and into a ditch.

Democrats Attack GOP Slashes Of Farm Funds

WASHINGTON, May 24—Rep. Cannon (D) Mo. charged today that the house Republican leadership has "read the riot act" to GOP members, but he promised a fight "right down the line" to restore cuts in agriculture appropriations for 1948.

The ranking minority member of the house appropriations committee declared that after the appropriations subcommittee on agriculture had slashed 337 million dollar budget, the Republi- department's one billion, 200 million dollar budget, the Republican leadership demanded that a further cut be made.

He said that as a result of the GOP action, the subcommittee was reconvened by its chairman, Rep. Dirksen (R) Ill. and another 45 million was cut from the appropriations bill to make an overall 32 percent reduction.

• • •

CANNON said amendments would be offered by the Democrats to restore some of the major cuts, but he appeared pessimistic over the outcome.

The ex-committee chairman added:

"The Republicans have tossed the farmers to the lions. The farmers of the West helped elect the Republicans last year and now the Republicans have turned around and kicked them."

• • •

MEANWHILE, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson charged that the slash in funds for his agency "directs sharp cut at the interests of the American farm family and the general public."

Republican leaders remained unperturbed, however, by Democratic threats of reprisals. They said the nation had voted for economy last Fall and they intended to fulfill Republican promises.

The committee-approved bill will be called up in the house Monday. The committee recommended that the 1948 agriculture department budget of $1,188,571,318 be reduced to $805,143,576, a cut of $383,427,742. This represented a reduction of $469,542,475 or 40 percent below the funds given the department this year.

The cut, if sustained by the house, would bring to $2,672,529,230 reductions made so far in President Truman's 37½ billion dollar budget. The house voted to reduce it by six billion dollars, the senate by four and one-half billion.

OHIO NATIONAL GUARD WANTS TO USE FORT HAYES

COLUMBUS, O., May 24—The Ohio National Guard made known today its desire to obtain use of part of Fort Hayes.

The historic fort has been declared surplus by the Army. It will be turned over to the war assets administration when the Fifth Service Command is disbanded next week.

Adjutant General Chester W. Goble said the ONG's contemplated use of the facilities would not interfere with the desire of the city of Columbus to establish a housing project there.

Meanwhile, Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler, Fifth Service Command head, prepared to join Gen. Eisenhower's staff in Washington Monday.

SHOWDOWN DUE TUESDAY WHEN VOTING BEGINS

Taft Optimistic Over Law As Week Of Compromise Work Ends

WASHINGTON, May 24 — House-senate conferees on new labor legislation drafted a "test bill" today in preparation for a showdown Tuesday when section-by-section voting will begin.

Signs pointed to delivery of a bill to President Truman by the first week of June.

Chairman Taft (R) Ohio, put the committee lawyers to work on the tentative draft, and he and Rep. Hartley (R) N. J., house conferees chairman, are to take a hand in it today.

Taft said he expected the voting to be finished by conferees by Wednesday night, but he saw the possibility that a second tentative draft may have to be written for final action.

• • •

STILL UNDECIDED, formally at least, were a few such major issues as:

1. Industrywide bargaining.
2. Direct use of injunctions by employers.
3. How far the senate will go in accepting part of the house-passed "workers' bill of rights."

Taft was optimistic as the first week's negotiations on a compromise ended.

The senate conferees accepted the house-passed ban on strikes against the government or corporations wholly-owned by the government.

SENATE CONFEREES also accepted the house section outlawing political expenditures — as well as the presently-outlawed "contributions" — by labor unions.

The senate group also agreed to modify its ban on welfare funds not jointly administered labor and management to continue present plans which are working satisfactorily.

The strikes ranged from Yunan province in south China to Peiping in the north where student clashes with police are resulting in growing causalty lists.

TOLEDO NEARS AA LEAD; BIRDS MOVE TO THIRD

By International News Service

If opportunity knocks but once, the Toledo Mud Hens are stymied today.

The Hens missed a chance to take the American Association lead last night when they split a double header with Indianapolis while the pacesetting Kansas City Blues were losing to St. Paul.

Toledo squeezed out a 3-to-2 ninth inning victory in its first game behind another slick pitching job by Lefty Earl Jones. The Indians' veteran Lou Tost limited the Mud Hens to six hits in the nightcap, however, winning 6 to 1.

Meanwhile, Kansas City lost a 7-to-5 slugfest to the Saints, who tied the score in the eighth, then pushed over two runs in the ninth to win.

Columbus and Milwaukee took over third and fourth place, respectively, dislodging the Louisville Colonels. Columbus took care of the slipping 1946 champs, 8 to 7, in a thriller, and Milwaukee stopped Minneapolis' sluggers in both ends of a twin bill, 5 to 2 and 4 to 2.

Rookie Alex Patterson of Columbus won his fourth game without a loss, although he was tagged for three runs in the opening inning and finally had to have help from Ira Hutchinson.

Jim Gleeson of Louisville and Don Lang of Columbus had home runs.

Ewald Pyle set the Millers down with three hits, one a homer by Wes Westrum, to win the opener for Milwaukee. In the second game, Al Epperly scattered ten hits.

SEAMEN KILLED, OTHERS ESCAPE BLAZING TANKER

LONDON, May 24 — One seaman was killed but the remainder of the crew was rescued today from the 10,441-ton American tanker Newhall Hills which caught fire in a collision north of the Dover Strait.

A second American tanker — the John La Large—was reported to have collided with an unidentified British fishing boat in heavy fog near treacherous Goodwin Sands. The fishing boat sank and lifeboats searched the area for survivors.

Heavy weather was blamed for both accidents. The Newhall Hills, which also was believed to have rammed a fishing boat, drifted helplessly while rescue craft searched for the blazing vessel.

The flames finally were extinguished and the crew was removed by a lifeboat from Ramsgate.

TRUMAN WILL STAY AT BEDSIDE OF AGED MOTHER

GRANDVIEW, Mo., May 24— Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said today that President Truman was unable to plan a return to Washington at the present time because of the seriousness of his mother's illness.

Ross said he had talked with Brig. Gen. Wallace Graham, the President's personal physician. Ross said the physician told him:

"Mother Truman's condition is not such that he feels he would be warranted in advising the President to return at this time."

LESNEVICH EASY WINNER IN HEAVY ELIMINATION

NEW YORK, May 24 — The coming of a new day brought light but not understanding today to the strange episode that got a time-exposure presentation in 59 seconds flat at the Garden last night.

That, as the tersely official records will show, was the elapsed time involved when Gus Lesnevich knocked Melio Bettina colder than a slab of enamel, by way of celebrating the premiere of the Joe Louis elimination sweepstakes.

Bettina, 10½ pounds heavier and 6-5 betting favorite, came out slowly, took a right, then went down for a nine count on a right cross. He survived another, after taking almost a 10 count, then passed out when Lesnevich clipped him again. Bettina never struck a blow.

PATIENT RETURNED

Donald Levi, 19, Columbus war veteran and fugitive from the Veterans hospital, Chillicothe, was apprehended at 7 p. m. Friday in a field near Dorney, south of Circleville, by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies Carl Radcliff and Vern L. Pontious. Levi, who had been committed to the hospital by court order, was subsequently released to the custody of hospital officials. Levi managed to elude the deputies in the field for about 30 minutes before he was captured. He had fled from the Chillicothe institution earlier Friday.

In the southern states, the blooming magnolia is one of nature's most beauteous expressions. It represents life in its stage of fulfillment.

In many respects the human life may be compared with it. First a soul is born, then it is nurtured. Finally it reaches the period of its truest mission in life. The way a life is inclined by its early training determined the extent of its beauty and influence on the characters of others.

A child reared in the influence of the church and religion, attains the highest degree of beauty of character and accomplishment. Such as one growing into maturity and middle age, finds life's mysteries unfolding, its challenges successfully met.

As there is beauty in the magnolia blossom, so is there inspiration in a human life into which the Holy Spirit has come. Such a life may cause these whose influence touches, to glorify God.

As the beauty of a flower is determined by the care it receives in its early stages, so will the training of a child bring forth character that will find its fulfillment in service to its Creator and its fellow men. Such a growth is best begun and nurtured within the church. The House of God stands ready to answer man's challenges with a faith and promise capable of withstanding all of the assaults of temptation and sin.

Go to church Sunday and refresh yourself spiritually for the challenges the coming week has in store for you.

Fall of the Northern Kingdom

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for May 25 is II Kings 5:1-15; 15:8-17:41; Isaiah 28:1-4, the Memory Verse being Psalm 46:1, "God is our refuge and strength, A very present help in trouble.")

"NOW NAAMAN, captain of the host of the king of Syria, was a great man with his master, and honorable, because by him the Lord had given deliverance until Syria; he was also a mighty man in valour, but he was a leper."

In one of the raids made by the Syrians, the soldiers had brought a little Israelite maiden as a captive, and she waited on Naaman's wife. "And she said unto her mistress, Would God my lord were with the prophet that is in Samaria! for he would recover him of his leprosy."

Someone told the master what the little girl had said, and the king of Syria wrote a letter to the king of Israel telling him that he, the king of Syria, was sending his servant, Naaman, to him to be cured of leprosy. The king of Israel read the letter and tore his robe, saying, "Am I God, to kill and to make alive, that this man doth send unto me to recover a man of leprosy? Wherefore consider I pray you, and see how he seeketh a quarrel against me."

When Elisha heard that the king had rent his clothes and thought the king of Syria was trying to pick a quarrel with him, he said, "Let him come now to me, and he shall know that there is a prophet in Israel."

Naaman Goes to Elisha

So Naaman came to Elisha with his horses and his chariot and gifts, and stood at Elisha's door. Now Elisha did not come down to see Naaman himself, but he sent a messenger to him, telling him to go to the river Jordan, wash himself in the water seven times, and he would be clean.

Naaman flew into a rage at this message. Probably he felt he had not been shown the proper respect due to one of his station because Elisha had not come to talk with him. "Behold, I thought, he will surely come out to me, and stand, and call on the name of the Lord his God, and strike his hand over the place, and recover the leper," he said.

And as for the river Jordan, why could he not wash in one of the rivers of Syria and be clean? They were much less muddy than the Jordan. However, his servants, who seem to have been fond of him, said, "My father, if the prophet had bid thee do some great thing, wouldest thou not have done it? How much rather then, when he saith to thee, Wash, and be clean."

That must have seemed like commonsense to Naaman, so he went to the river Jordan, dipped himself seven times in the water, and "His flesh came again like unto the flesh of a little child, and he was clean."

Naaman went back to Elisha and offered him gifts, but he would take nothing, so Naaman told him he would offer no more sacrifices to strange gods, but only to the Lord.

Fall of the Kingdom

This story of the healing of the captain by the power of God is the first part of our lesson; the rest deals with the fall of the northern kingdom because of the people's wickedness and disobedience to God. As we noted in our last lesson, Israel rose to its height in power and prosperity in the reign of Jeroboam II. This monarch was followed by his son, Zechariah, who was murdered after a six months' reign, by Shallum, who reigned for only one month and was killed by Menahem. At this time Tiglathpileser, king of Syria, invaded the kingdom of Israel and exacted an enormous tribute from the king of the now weakened empire. The king took the money from the wealthy men of his kingdom who had piled up fortunes when Jeroboam II was king.

Menahem was succeeded by his son, Pekahiah, who was assassinated by Pekah. Pekah opposed the Assyrians, but he was slain by Hoshea I and his followers. He was a tool of Assyria.

Isaiah, the prophet, prophesied the downfall of Israel, saying, "Woe to the crown of pride, to the drunkards of Ephraim, whose glorious beauty is a fading flower, which are on the head of the fat valleys of them that are overcome with wine! . . . The crown of the pride, the drunkards of Ephraim, shall be trodden under feet. And the glorious beauty, which is on the head of the fat valley, shall be a fading flower, and as the hasty fruit before the summer; which when he that looketh upon it seeth, while it is yet in his hand he eateth it up."

Hoshea was a wicked king, although not as bad as some of the others. It was during his reign that Israel fell. Hoshea was taken captive and held a hostage for the payment of tribute, and the hordes of Assyrians poured into Israel. Samaria was beseiged, and although it held out for three years, it was finally captured and the Israelites were carried off into slavery once more. This took place in 722 B. C.

FOR CLARITY'S SAKE

AT LONG last a railroad timetable has been produced which anyone can understand. It is an arrangement of two cardboard discs with the information sandwiched between them. As the discs are moved an automatic calculator reveals arrival and departure times. The gadget forms a single unit, easily carried. Facts are simply stated. There are no more code markings to be interpreted, no more hunting for footnotes after asterisks, no injunctions to "read down" or to "read up".

This is indeed a boon to travelling humanity, and not a minor one, either. Perhaps if one railroad could figure out such a simplification, other roads can, too. And for this the public says, praises be.

One wonders why some one didn't think up such an aid to man sooner. And why other similar simplifications can't be made, too. Income tax forms, though somewhat improved, are still far too complicated. Most municipal codes are needlessly difficult to understand. Most lawyers' letters are also, and the directions that come with such things as washing machines and cameras.

The public has been long suffering. Perhaps this one time table reform may herald universal improvement and start a vogue for forthright informational service of all sorts.

WHAT IS EDUCATION?

HE IS AN educated man, says a visiting English educator, Sidney Wood, who can entertain a new idea, another person, and himself. He believes Jesus, Czechoslovakian Thomas Masaryk and Franklin Roosevelt met the three qualifications—as well as many more humble folk.

The definition hinges on what the word education means to Mr. Wood, who should know something about the subject as he has spent a good share of his life in the British ministry of education. His formula would permit a completely illiterate individual, who has had no formal schooling, to qualify as educated. There are many who will disagree, for this leaves out much that makes education vitally important to many people.

On the other hand, there are many people with college degrees and framed diplomas who would never pass this apparently simple test. What good, after all, is a framed diploma if the possessor cannot adapt his mind to new trends of thought, find a common meeting ground with other minds or keep himself from boredom? That short definition could start many a long discussion.

Somehow it is hard to get sympathetic over the troubles of motorists who have been buying new cars in a black market, and now are having a time to get the clear titles which they need for their license plates.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, May 24—An editor writes: "..stop quoting those people around Washington about what they think of the tax bill, the budget, the union reform bill and are doing on the sly. That is all very interesting, but we know those people. Their axes are all familiar. What I am paying for, is what you think. I don't care if you make a mistake once in a while. Unless I get some good judgment on Washington, what's wrong there, and what should be done about it, I will be in the same fix they are. . . ."

Alright, here is what I think about it. Don't get angry because the views cannot possibly conform to yours, they are bound to be mistaken in some particular. But as you suggest, you can pick up the propaganda tripe in free handouts from the interested parties, and you are paying for an honest, objective opinion and are entitled to it.

I think the exigencies of politics are working to nullify any national Democratic leadership. That is about the whole story. You must judge by Mr. Truman's actions he thinks he can coast into re-election if he only lets the Republicans get themselves into hotter and hotter water—and heats the water up a little himself wherever he can without getting caught. On the other side, the Republicans plainly think they can establish national leadership with their economizing, tax reduction and union reform bills, which really are rather mild when measured against the whole.

But the Republicans have for five months encountered opposition politics, which whittled down their proposals and now is culminating in threats that all or some will be lost by veto or nullification.

Thus while Mr. Truman's policy is to let the Republicans do it and his Democrats are actively preventing the Republicans from doing it if possible—you have had no affirmative leadership the last six months.

Now this situation should clear somewhat when the final conclusions on the three big points in the program become evident in the next few weeks. How much they clear depends to a considerable extent on how much is jointly assured by both parties. Congress is adjourning in July under law. Mr. Truman will remain as administrator of the Republican program, or whatever portion of it is left, after having been hammered down by political pressure. With both Mr. Truman and certain Republican leaders running for the presidency twelve critical months ahead of time, the prospects for joint leadership ahead may look rather dim. Indeed, we may be lucky if they do not succeed entirely in nullifying each other right up to election day.

That is what is wrong here.

What could be done about it? Many things. Actually a cessation of such premature politics in a joint endeavor to assert an affirmative leadership during this period of business readjustment would be about the best thing. Joint statements, speeches and above all, actions, are required. After this legislation is concluded and before congress adjourns, this might be possible. A change in the Gallup poll showing Mr. Truman he could not coast in would probably be more beneficial than you may suspect.

A curious feature about the present congress is that the controversial legislation has been in the interest of industry, but voted by representatives from farming districts.

LAFF-A-DAY

"There goes Willie on another whaling trip — to the woodshed!"

DIET AND HEALTH

Penicillin Isn't a Cure-All

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

NOTHING about penicillin—not even the speed with which it works—is more astonishing to the average man than the great variety of diseases against which it is effective. The list is so long that many people mistakenly regard it as a cure-all.

This misunderstanding is easily cleared up if we stop to realize that the germs which penicillin knocks out so successfully can, and do, invade many different parts of the body, causing more or less serious disorders depending on the site of the attack. Thus the same germs which cause the relatively harmless boil when they become entrenched in tissues just beneath the skin can bring about a swift and deadly infection of the brain.

What Germs Checked

Today we know pretty well just what germs penicillin will hold in check. In general it is useful against staphylococci, streptococci, gonococci, meningococci and pneumococci whenever and wherever they set up their infections in the body.

It is also remarkably effective against a germ which seems to confine its harmful activities to the tissues of the mouth, where it causes Vincent's angina or trench mouth.

According to Dr. William S. Hoffman of Chicago, penicillin will combat this disorder whether taken by mouth, applied locally to an infected area or injected into a muscle. It would appear, however, that the latter method gives better results than either of the others alone in many cases. There are some reports which indicate that symptoms are relieved within six to nine hours after the treatment is started and that the germs which have caused the symptoms will have disappeared from the mouth within 48 hours.

Trench mouth causes such symptoms as ulcers or sores on the gums, tonsils and lining membrane of the mouth. The sores are painful, and often there is difficulty in chewing and swallowing. Sometimes fever is present.

When using the penicillin locally in this condition it may be employed as a spray or as lozenges or as a mouth wash. It even has been put into ice cream, which is allowed to melt in the mouth. A combination of both the local use and the injection method is thought by many doctors to give the best results.

Apical Infections

Penicillin has also been found useful in the treatment of what are known as apical infections. This means infections at the root of a tooth. Local application of the penicillin is not particularly effective. Better results are obtained by the injection of the penicillin into a muscle or by giving it by mouth.

If the germs causing the infection are lodged in dead tissue or dead bone or cannot be reached by the body fluids, a cure cannot be produced with the penicillin by this method. In such cases surgical treatment of the tooth is necessary. Dead tissue must be removed and, if an abscess has formed at the root of the tooth, the abscess must be drained. However, even in these cases the use of penicillin may lessen the infection and help keep the infection from spreading.

Of course, when penicillin is used for the treatment of dental conditions, the dentist must decide what amount should be employed and how it should be administered. But in all cases it is necessary to give it early enough, in large enough doses and for a long enough period of time.

Shun accident, violence.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of splendid prospects for advancement, progress and practical productive performance with hearty endorsement and substantial support from superiors, employers or those in authority. However, there is sign of enmity and unhappy withdrawal of all support should there be indulgence in ill-temper, strife, argument or other show of temperament or rash action. Disappointment and friction may follow with sharp reaction on the nervous or physical well being.

A child born on this day while ambitious and energetic with prospects of a successful and worthy career may be predisposed to argument, quarrels and rash acts to its detriment.

For Sunday, May 25

SUNDAY'S horoscope shows an auspicious and happy state of affairs generally, with the emphasis on holidays trips, social and romantic engagements, with sudden developments bringing to a climax many cherished hopes and wishes. Travel change and new relationships may prove thrilling and possibly sensational, bringing much joy if not carried to extremes. Needful business activities are also gratifying, but in all contacts keep within bounds of reason, prudence and poise.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of many advantages and openings for a prosperous, happy and eventful era, with desired change, new contacts, and kindly support from influential sources, both in business and purely personal associations. Good and surprising news may change plans and environs, with benefit to spirits and morale, but it would be wise to stop short of excesses, fatigue and extravagance of funds and energies.

A child born on this day has fine equipment for successful and happy life, with energy, ambition and social qualities. Its tendency to extravagance and over-doing might call for early supervision.

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO

PAGE HEARD the note of deep feeling, under the nonsense Rufus spoke, saw it in his eyes and was smitten with qualms for what she was doing. When, reaching the park, he swung into a deserted, graveled cul-de-sac, overlooking the lake, and stopped the car, she drew as far away from him as the seat permitted. "Wait, Rufus," she said faintly.

"Wait?"

"I mean—Rufus, why do you want me?"

He did not answer at once. He took her hand, opened it flat on his palm, looked down at it for a moment. "I haven't known many girls, Page. Oh, I've met a lot, but no one of them ever interested me. I suppose because I'd always had one in my mind, sort of an ideal, and I never saw her until I ran into you, that night of the wedding. It was as if you'd stepped out of my thoughts into flesh and bones."

"But Rufus, ideals are dangerous!"

"Good for measuring sticks, aren't they?"

"You don't know me, really!"

"You don't know me. It's fifty-fifty."

"I may disappoint you! I may not have any of the qualities you think I have—"

"Well, I'm what is known as a peculiar guy! But Page, we're starting with as good chances as are given to any! If we're always honest with each other—"

Honest. The word struck like a knife into Page's heart.

Rufus drew her to him. "You've been darned honest with me from the first, Page. I've seen the fight you've put up with yourself. You're a girl in a million. THE girl! MY girl." The last was a rough whisper, close to her ear. "Now—may I kiss you?"

She turned her face slowly up to his. It was white and frightened. He kissed her eyelids, her brow, then her mouth. A long kiss, with deep tenderness in its passion.

He loosened his hold of her reluctantly. "Now what?" he asked, with a slightly confused laugh. "Remember I've never been engaged before! I suppose the order is that I go to your father and mother and tell them I am planning to marry their daughter—"

"You'd better let me tell them," Page said, hastily.

"Why? What's there to it? What can they do about it?"

"Nothing, or not much. They are not going to like it," she finished, after a little hesitation.

"I'm not of your class, eh?" Rufus laughed as he said it, but his lips curled slightly. "I suppose if I could tell them that I had family scattered about in prominent places it'd be a different song entirely."

"It might. Rufus, they have their prejudices, just as you have yours! It's simply that they're on the other side. Father thinks you're too radical. He's read your columns on this trial. If—well, if some time you'd say it was your job, that you HAD to write them the way the Post wanted you to—" Her fingers tightened on his, a little appealingly.

"Which is quite true," Rufus finished, dryly. His eyes narrowed though he smiled down at her. "If it's going to make it easier for you, I'll use discretion when I'm with your father. After all, I can't expect to raid the palace without walking on tiptoe, can I?" He turned the ignition key, started the car. "But keep in mind, my dear, I've some pride of my own and it doesn't take to dust-eating."

• • •

"Almost nine, Di," Bill called to Diane, the morning after the evening of his mother's dinner. "But at that, I am not going to hurry." He got out of bed, stretched leisurely, thrust his feet into slippers and went into the bathroom.

Diane heard him whistling as he ran the shower. She was startled by his cheerfulness; last night's emotions lay on her like a dead weight.

Bill ate his breakfast with relish, lingered at the table, drinking a third cup of coffee. "How are your accounts, Di? I've time now to go over them with you, if you want me to."

"They're all right. I've quite a safe balance."

He laughed. "Hard little bargain driver, aren't you?"

"Probably I've inherited that from my father!"

"Well, wherever you get it, you're amazing. And I appreciate it, Di. I've seen the jam some fellows get into right at the start, from letting their wives spend every penny they earn. If Dean does take me into the firm it'll mean more salary and what do you say to putting the difference into the savings account?"

Diane said: "I think that would be a good plan."

Leaving, Bill turned at the door. "No work this evening!" He kissed her again. "You've been a darn good sport all these weeks, sweetheart!"

She stood in the window this morning, and watched him go down the street. "I'm amazing, thrifty, I save your money and I am a good sport! Oh, Bill, I want to be more than that!"

Later, shaking soap flakes into the dishpan, watching them froth and bubble, she thought: "Maybe today is the beginning." Now, knowing more about herself, about Bill, knowing there were things she did not know, about both herself and Bill. Her hands caught and held to the edge of the sink. "But, it's like—like finding your way in the dark!"

Lois called her, in the middle of the morning. "Play today, Di?"

Diane began a flimsy excuse which Lois interrupted. "Di, it isn't what Vicky said the other day, is it? I know that was raw, but that's Vicky! Anyway, she won't be out there. She's gone to Muskoka for the weekend."

"It isn't Vicky. It's simply that it's too hot!"

"Diane Farrell, it's the first time I've heard you say that. We could go into the pool before and after! And if we want to get anywhere in the qualifying we've got to practice—"

"Where's Danny? He'll play with with you!"

"Danny suggested the three of us play—"

"Di," wailed Lois, "you sound as if you never were coming out again!"

Diane laughed that aside. "Don't be a dope." Hung up, when Lois finally abandoned her pleading, with a little feeling that it was only the beginning. Within a few days, as soon as Thad came back, she would have to tell them she could not go on in their movie.

"What shall we do this evening?" Bill asked at dinner. He had pronounced it a very good dinner. "Everything I like!"

Yes, everything he liked.

"What do you want to do?"

"Why not have someone in for bridge? I might call Carl Meadows and ask him and his wife to come over."

"Yes, call him."

They came. They were a quiet couple, older than Bill and Diane by ten years or more. With his arm over Bill's shoulders, Carl said to Diane: "You've reason to be very proud of this young man of yours, Mrs. Arden!"

"Yes, I realize I have," Diane answered.

Mrs. Meadows was outspoken in her admiration of the apartment. "It's so beautifully new! Our house has become dreadfully battered and it's always noisy! We have three big boys, you know, Mrs. Arden. Just lately Butch, he's Carl, Junior, has taken up the cornet. You can imagine what that is like! You and Bill must come over very soon. I've wanted to ask you, but I knew there wasn't a chance till that trial was over. We didn't dare even call!"

"We'd like to come," Diane said.

Mrs. Meadows spoke of it again when they were leaving. "Dinner, some evening. I'll call you."

"They're fine people," Bill said with enthusiam, folding the card-table. "I'm glad they've asked us over. Friendly relations outside the office helps in a firm—"

Diane swung around to him. "You mean—"

"Dean said something today. It wasn't official, but I can feel reasonably sure of it."

"But why didn't you tell me?"

"Nothing to tell until it's signed on the dotted line."

"No, there isn't!"

She went with the tray of empty coffee cups to the kitchen, began to wash the cups, the ash trays.

Bill called to her. "Let the things Go, Di! Come along to bed!"

Diane heard the ardor in his voice; she closed the cupboard door, leaned her forehead against it, fighting a strange half-shrinking in her flesh.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T BLAME THE LUCK

IT IS easy enough to blame your hard luck when some move by the defense keeps you from making your contract. But a bit of reflection may show you could have countered the move and brought the bacon home anyway. The adaptable player is prepared to handle a crucial suit in one way if a particular card is led, but in a different manner if another card is chosen by the opener. No Trump game contracts especially depend on such factors.

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	Pass	1 ♥	1 ♠
1 NT	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 NT

By slightly different methods that game contract was reached at a lot of tables in a duplicate, a spade being opened in each case. Where the worst card, the K, was chosen, South won, drove out the heart A, then made either two or three extra tricks, dependent on whether East scored his spade Q immediately or led low to the J.

Where the spade 8 was led, the Q forced the A and, after the heart A won, West got two spade tricks. The suit, however, was blocked because the 10 was higher than any spade East retained.

At one table West led the spade 10, to begin unblocking the suit. The Q was won by the A. When the heart A won, East returned the spade 5. South put in the J, which was won by the K. West then led his 8 to East's 9, whereupon East set the contract with his spade remainders.

South, after being the only man beaten in that contract, bemoaned the hard luck of having the 10 led against him. He could have made the game, however, if he had played low on the second spade. West could have won that with the 8, but the K would have blocked the suit.

"But suppose," asked South, "East had pulled a fast one by leading low when holding the K; then I would have had to play the J at once." He had something there, but couldn't properly say he had no chance to make his contract.

Your Week-End Question

Under what circumstances should a player bid another playable suit after his partner had shown adequate support for one of the majors?

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE .... Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up to a morning of sunshine, the second in succession. Lived right up to advice given me many, many years ago by my first editor: Believe nothing you hear and only half of what you see. So, did stick my hand outside to test for rain. No rain. Worked myself up to boiling point again over the ruling of that Third U. S. circuit court of appeals down Philadelphia way. The one in which the judges decreed that union officials may remain on jobs even when war veterans have seniority rights over them. Seems as though the jurists felt the union officials enjoyed "preferred seniority" because it was "highly essential" for them to be on the job to look after the interests of union members. I thought our politicians were doing a good enough job in that respect.

Downtown to thank Charlie Gilmore for an interesting afternoon the day before. Rotarians inspected the Columbus and Southern Ohio power plant in the north part of the county. Saw $6,000,000 worth of machinery and more than a half hundred men working to make it possible for me to flip a switch and get light. Heard a lot of fact and figures, some of which stuck: A pump that throws 40,000 gallons of water a minute, 925 tons of coal used every day to generate power, storage for 85,000 tons of coal, 90,000 KW output an hour, 2,400 degree firebox heat producing 140,000 pounds of steam an hour. Spent an hour on the inspection tour and at the end told Charlie there was just one thing I did not fully comprehend. Just a simple little thing like, "how do you get electricity out of that thing?"

Jack Winship was along. Remember him? Jack installed the first power plant in Circleville, in the alley back of Stone's grill. Later moved it to where the present sub station is situated. A far cry from Jack's first plant that modern one to the north. And some $2,000,000 in improvements now in progress there. Jack understood a lot more than the rest of us about the machinery he was seeing.

Chatted with Charlie Walters who congratulated me on living in a neighborhood that is turning toward Ayrshire cattle. That's George. That cement-eating bull still is alive, but "feeling mighty low." Passed the time of day with Harry Graef and waved to Mayor Ben. Talked with Chief Buggs and learned the night had been quiet. Bill Lanman, who does such a good job of operating the Kroger store, told of a big take of crappies at Wayne lake. Bill is clever with that fly rod.

Saw Jay Clark packing a "Mae West" life preserver and knew the time not far away when he will be testing out that new speed outboard motor he acquired during the Winter. There's speed.

Home in the late afternoon for a session with the lawnmower before dinner. Then a short drive through the twilight and a quiet evening that was ended at a reasonable hour.

Gay Junior-Senior Prom Held In Memorial Hall

CHS Graduates Are Honor Guests At Annual Affair

Junior-Senior prom held in Memorial hall Friday evening, was one of the most colorful of the traditional events given during the graduation activities in recent years. The outstanding social affair is an annual courtesy of the junior class for the pleasure of the seniors of Circleville high school.

Beautifully decorated Memorial hall had an artistic arrangement of streamers of silver and green crepe paper forming a canopy ceiling to a backdrop of streamers. Entrance to the floor was through an archway made of twisted strands of green. Surrounding the room were many tables covered in silver with strips of green down the center. Placed at the back of the bandshell in huge silver letters, as a compliment to the graduates, was the year date "47' on a green background.

At the base of the platform, reaching from each side was G-O-O-D - 47 - L-U-C-K. On the walls around the room was "Junior-Senior Prom 47-48" encrusted in glistening silver. Soft colored lights cast a pale glow through the latticed ceiling, over the group as they gaily danced.

WHITE COATS of the male attire formed a perfect background for Circleville's young debutants in stunning formals. Beautifully gowned for the occasion, the girls were smart in their formals, the flowered cottons showing a pleasing contrast to the more conventional silks, taffetas and nets. In an array of hues from white, dainty pastels and the deeper brilliant shades, in the very latest mode of madam fashion, they formed a vivid rainbow of colors. Some of the frocks were of a period design — others with buffant skirts and sweetheart necklines —or the smart tailored dinner gowns. Nosegays of carnations, gardenias and roses and a few orchids were to be seen on the young women.

Johnny Carl and his well known orchestra from Columbus played from 9 to 12, repeating favorite selections again and again to please the lively group. Orchestra featured a vocalist. Highlight of the evening was the presentation of Miss Teressa Blubaugh, member of the junior class, who sang "Anniversary Song" accompanied by the orchestra.

JUNIOR CLASS members were hosts for the social evening, and were in charge of all arrangements. Committee members responsible for the gala evening were, decoration, Paul Smallwood, Miss Edna Maynard, co-chairmen, Carl Radcliff, Miss Faye Allen, Miss Lois Burgoon, Miss Bonnie Hill, Robert Eccard, Robert Huffer, Robert Boggs and Martin Garner; program, Miss Virginia Wise, chairman and Jack Coffland; music, Robert Johnson, chairman and Robert Shaw; refreshments, Miss Wanda Raymond, chairman, Donald Beck, Miss Elayne Baker, Pauline Dawson, Jack Pettit and Richard Glass; Invitations, Miss Rosemary Stonerock, chairman, Miss Patricia Metzger and Miss Lucille Stambaugh.

SHERBERT floating in fruit punch and refreshments were served buffet style from a long table at one side of the room. Assisting in serving were Mrs. Paul Johnson, Mrs. Fred Cook, Mrs. Avery Purcell and Fred Watts.

Balcony was filled to capacity with interested spectators. Attractive silver and green programs tied with gold cords, were soon completely filled for the many dances. Tables were arranged in the Post room for games for the convenience of those that did not choose to dance.

Chaperones included the faculty and board of education members. In this group were Mr. and Mrs. J. Wray Henry, Frank Fisher, John R. Daugherty, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest T. Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Hamlyn, Fred Watts, Miss Marjorie Oyer, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rader, Miss Margaret Rooney, Miss Margaret Mattinson, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brown, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Leist, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Eagleson, Mrs. Howard B. Moore, Miss Florence Brown, Mr. and Mrs. John Chilcote, Steve Brudzinski, Mrs. Helen Brown and Miss Hazel Core.

MIZE AHEAD OF BABE RUTH'S HOME RUN PACE

Giants Take National Lead; Indians Beaten In 12-Inning Game

NEW YORK, May 24—Johnny Mize of the New York Giants today is seven games ahead of Babe Ruth's home run pace in 1927, when the bambino set a record by whacking a total of 60 homers.

The big first baseman hit his 11th homer of the campaign yesterday 20 years, to the day, after Babe got his No. 11 on May 23, 1927.

If Big Jawn could play in the Boston park all season he would crack Ruth's record by a mile. When Mize and his playmates visited the Hub last month, he clouted the ball over the right field fence in his last three times up. Yesterday's drive over the garden wall came in his second time at bat.

• • •

THE VICTORY accomplished three big things for the Giants, in addition to boosting Mize's already healthy batting average. It put them in first place in the National League, ahead of the idle Chicago Cubs, made it certain that rookie Larry Jansen is a dependable starting pitcher, and convinced the Giants that they can beat any club in the league.

The New Yorkers had made mincemeat out of six other N. L. clubs but had absorbed two terrific beatings from the Braves in Boston this year after dropping eight out of 11 in the Hub last season. Jansen's six-hit, 8-to-1 win yesterday, his third triumph of the season without a setback, obliterated the Boston bugaboo, temporarily at least.

Brooklyn staked the Phillies to a 4-0 lead in a night game and then nosed out the Quakers, 5 to 4. The Dodgers advanced to third place, passing the Braves, due to the wildness and poor fielding of Philadelphia's pitchers.

In another night game the tail-end St. Louis Cardinals made it two straight over Pittsburgh, which constitutes a winning streak for the world champions in these parlous times. George Munger held the Bucs to six hits and blanked them, 2 to 0.

• • •

IN THE AMERICAN League the pace-setting Detroit Tigers, already loaded with gilt-edged pitching, uncovered another stellar hurler when Al Benton, now ready for regular duty, started a game for the first time this season and subdued the Chicago White Sox, 5 to 2.

Allie Reynolds of the Yanks, for the second time this season, hurled a two-hit shutout against Boston's Red Sox, blanking them 9 to 0. Charley Keller's ninth homer put him only one behind Ted Williams, who in turn trails Mize by one circuit clout.

The Athletics routed Washington's slipping Senators, 8 to 1, in a night game.

The American League race is so close that the circuit now has six first-division clubs. This novel situation is due to the fact that the Yankees, Athletics and White Sox all are tied for fourth place.

In the only other game played, a night contest at Cleveland, the Indians lost to St. Louis, 5 to 3, when the Browns' scored two runs in the 12th inning. The Indians rallied in the 8th to tie the score after Robinson's homer in the 7th with none on.

ASHVILLE REDS AT CHILLICOTHE

Feature Game Of SCO League Expected When Papers Bid For Lead

Ashville Reds will put on a first place battle with Chillicothe at the Mead park there in the feature game of the South Central Ohio Baseball league.

The Reds now hold undisputed first place with Chillicothe anxious to regain the top spot the club occupied at the end of the last season. The Papermakers lost their opener at Lancaster, but have been going good since. Ashville won over the Glassmen two weeks ago.

Both clubs are expected to send southpaws to the mound. Leonard Hornsby seems to be Manager Carl Gulick's choice while Everett Barnett, Mead planner, is expected to use either Roy Bartlett or Don Pollard.

• • •

LANCASTER Glassmen make their first invasion of the western side of the league Sunday, meeting the Jeffersonville Cubs, now tied for fourth. Lancaster holds third place.

Washington Eagles will visit Grove City to help the Dodgers stage their delayed opening game ceremonies. Lefty "Chuck" Graves is beng counted on to pitch Grove City to a victory in their first game at home.

Jamestown can climb out of the cellar Sunday by winning over Greenfield. The Athletics surprised last week by giving Lancaster a good game before bowing 3-0.

26 SPOTS OPEN AT SPEEDWAY; ASPAR COMING

INDIANAPOLIS, May 24 — Twenty-six positions were still open in the starting lineup for the Memorial Day 500-mile race as the third day of time trials opened today at the Indianapolis motor speedway.

Although only seven cars qualified last Saturday and Sunday, it was believed that at least a dozen cars would be added to the starting lineup after trials this week-end.

An influx of cars and drivers to the track began shortly after an agreement was reached yesterday between the Speedway management and the American Society of Professional Automobile Racing. The agreement raised the prize fund money to an estimated $132,000.

ESMERALDA 9, RICHARDS WIN LEAGUE GAMES

Slugging Features Night Circuit Program In Ted Lewis Park

A hotly-contested slugging match and a walkaway were staged by Night Softball league teams Friday in Ted Lewis park.

Esmeralda won the first game 15-13 from Container Corporation. Then Richards Implement thumped VFW 26-1.

• • •

IN THE OPENER Esmeralda took a 6-0 first inning lead. Container came back with five runs in the second inning and moved ahead with two more in the third. The Canners tied it up in the last of the third but Container scored four in the fourth to take an 11-7 lead. Esmeralda got two back in the fourth and three more in the fifth to go ahead 12-11. Container got two in the sixth and held a 13-12 lead until the last half of the seventh when Esmeralda scored three times.

Esmeralda had 14 hits, one a homer by C. Smith. Container's 13 hits included homers by Ramey and Lutz.

• • •

GUY EASTER struck out the first seven batters to face him in the second game. He then got an assist on the 8th batter, putout on the ninth and struck out the next three. No VFW batter reached first until Immelt's error in the fifth. Easter had 13 strikeouts.

Easter allowed a total of three hits. Richards got 13 off Ed Brungs. Fred Immelt led with three for four.

Yesterday's Answer

Broadcasting company did both. It took listeners, comfortably lounging in their spacious living rooms, into the squalid homes of a slum area in New York's lower east side.

The first half of the hour-long documentary broadcast was a report on conditions in the stinking, garbage-littered tenements. Narrator George Hicks and Writer Robert S. Greene had spent days there, talking to the slum dwellers "in the little crooked houses, many without running water, 60 people for two toilets, dumbwaiters locked and bolted because rats make their home there."

• • •

THEY SAT on bar stools and asked drinkers about conditions in the neighborhood. "It seems that slum dwellers don't like to stay home at night. . .there's no room for company." One man was quite drunk and his voice became bitter, almost vicious, when he said, "what's the matter with our homes? We have no homes to live in. In my work, I've got to take a bath every night. We haven't got the water!"

None of these conversations was a dramatized rehash of what Hicks and Greene had found on their sordid trip. They had recorded the conversations as they occurred, and the sound effects were a squalling baby in its crib among "all the garbage". The mother pointed it out as she showed them around her quarters. "Here's a double mattress for a double bed. . .if we had the place for a double bed."

It took some time for Hicks and Greene to get the tenement dwellers to talk honestly with them, to convince the people there was a purpose in making such a broadcast, because down on the lower east side, they don't like snoopers.

• • •

ABC'S PURPOSE was to "come to some conclusions about the varying ways the problem can be solved." On the second half of the broadcast, three men, experts in building planning, took "the three biggest plans that have been proposed" and debated their merits.

One favored a system of public housing: "we can clear every slum in America in 10 years if we devote three days cost of World War II annually for that purpose."

The second advocated semi-public housing as a solution: "we need all the subsidized houses we can get and all the private houses we can get. There is a middle ground for those too well off for subsidizing and too poor for private housing."

The third argued for private housing: "the problem of providing adequate housing and cleaning up the slums is so big that only the greatest giant in the world can solve it, and that is private enterprise."

What echoed longest with listeners was the plaintive voice of the women, whose identity might be anyone in any slum area of any city in this country, who said, "I brought my baby home from the hospital and a rat bit it and it died five days later."

Tolerance theme of the Superman radio series is being carried to the pulpit. The minister of the Methodist Church in Greenwich, Connecticut, unable to deliver his sermon Sunday, May 18 because of an important out-of-town conference, invited Clayton "Superman" Collyer to substitute for him. The field is not entirely strange to Collyer as he has been a Sunday School teacher for many years.

SAmmy Kaye, eager to encourage bandleaders of the next generation, is running Saturday "So You Want to Lead a Band" contests for children under 12. They will continue during his present theater tour of the mid-west. Children from the audience are called upon to conduct the Swing and Swayers with prizes including bicycles, dolls, scooters, baseball gloves and other similar items. These shows have been so successful that Kaye is contemplating a children's "So You Want to Lead a Band" radio show to be run in addition to his current feature for adults.

NEW YORK, May 24—People who live in the slums don't like well-dressed strangers snooping around their evil-smelling corridors and tramping their rotting floorboards and sitting on their shaky furniture.

Those who live in well-kept homes with a patch of grass and an apple tree in the back yard don't like to talk about the poor folks crammed together in their own city's tenement district.

Memorial Day Services Planned In Circleville And County

NAVY RECRUITER WILL SPEAK AT CEMETERY HERE

Reber Hill Speaker To Be Col. Grimm; Graves To Be Decorated

Memorial Day will be widely observed May 30 in the Circleville area and the annual observance of the holiday will begin early this year with special services Sunday in many Circleville churches.

Special services will be held in the First Evangelical United Brethren church and at 10:15 a. m. Sunday members of various veterans' and patriotic organizations will assemble in front of the church. These include the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American Veterans, and their auxiliaries, and Daughters of Union Veterans, and Daughters of the American Revolution.

Industry and business will come to a virtual standstill in Circleville on Memorial Day next Friday in memory of the nation's military heroes.

* * *

GRAVES WILL be decorated in all of the cemeteries in the Circleville area on the holiday. At several cemeteries special memorial rites will be conducted.

Edward C. Ebert, adjutant of the Circleville post of the American Legion, said that war veterans in uniform will assemble at 9 a. m. Friday and will march from the downtown district to Forest cemetery where appropriate ceremonies will be held.

Principal speaker will be Chief Carpenter's Mate R. B. Eddy, of the U. S. Navy. Taps will be sounded. The graves of veterans will be decorated.

* * *

AT 2 P. M. Friday special Memorial Day services will be held at the Reber Hill cemetery under auspices of the Reber Hill Memorial Association of which Wilbur E. Brinker is president. Music will be provided by the Ashville High school band. Mrs. Martin Cromley is chairman of the program committee. Colonel Henry F. Grimm, ordnance inspector at Fort Hayes and a veteran of World War II who served in the Pacific theater of war, will be the principal speaker.

Colonel Grimm will also speak at morning memorial services at Harrison township cemetery near South Bloomfield.

* * *

JUDGE William D. Radcliff of the Pickaway County common pleas court, will be the chief speaker at services to be conducted at 2 p. m. Memorial Day in the Methodist church at Darbyville under sponsorship of the Muhlenberg Township Memorial Association. Music will be provided by the Lancaster band. The services at the cemetery will be directed by the Henry Page Folsom, Jr. Post, No. 3331, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Circleville. Members of the WSCS will serve dinner in the school auditorium at noon. Harry L. Melvin is president of the Muhlenberg Township Memorial Association.

In observance of Memorial Day all city and county and federal offices will be closed Friday in Circleville, along with banks and financial institutions, most stores and factories, and the library. There will be no deliveries of mail excepting special delivery letters, and the Sunday schedule of mail pickups will be observed.

Production Stepped Up At Horton Plant Here

Although production has been stepped up at the enlarged and improved plant of the Horton Manufacturing Division of the Aviation Corporation of America, in Circleville, it was learned Saturday that the factory is not included among several AVCO plants now being inspected by members of the AVCO board of directors.

Horton officials said they did not anticipate such an inspection by AVCO officials until more of a record of production has been built up in the Circleville factory.

* * *

TOP EXECUTIVES of AVCO met in regular board session Thursday at Cincinnati and the meeting was followed by an inspection of plants in the Cincinnati area including the Crosley radio manufacturing and broadcasting facilities, and the Crosley refrigerator plant at Richmond, Ind.

Inspection of the American Central factory at Connersville, Ind., was made Friday. The AVCO directors announced approval of plans for expansion of the New Idea plants at Coldwater, O., and at Sandwich, Ill., and the Lycoming and Spencer Heater factories at Williamsport, Pa.

* * *

SINCE the factory property of the Silex corporation in Circleville was purchased March, 1946, at public auction, for a named price of $70,000, the factory has been enlarged and improved, and the floor space increased from 25,000 square feet to more than 30,000 square feet. Almost one year ago the Civilian Production Administration's Columbus district office approved the Horton application for permission to spend $25,000 for new construction work at the Circleville plant. The work was slowed somewhat by difficulties in obtaining materials.

Inside walls were removed, the structure was re-roofed, and thus a solid non-U-shaped floor space was provided. The plant is situated at Clinton street and Half avenue. The one-story building was erected in 1926 on a 2.14 acre site. It has a sprinkler system and facilities including a five-car railroad siding.

COMPANY officials said it is planned to steadily increase the output of the Circleville factory which is producing parts for a unique type garage door which is sold in the nationwide market. The device and appurtenances enable a motorist to drive up to his garage, press a button on the car's instrument panel, and thus automatically open the garage door, simultaneously lighting the light in the garage. Leaving the garage the motorist merely presses another button in his home, and the garage door closes automatically and the garage light is extinguished simultaneously.

* * *

ELECTRICAL impulse is the answer to the operation of the Horton device, and the gadget has merited favorable comment throughout the nation. The device is known as the Avco automatic door opener, serving as a "private doorman" for the car owner and his entire family.

Company officials pointed out that the device can be quickly and easily installed on any type of garage door.

NEWS Behind the NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

Democracy works at its best in cooperative non-political ventures (see foreign policy, see war cooperation). Nullifying political tactics merely serve the vigorous anti-Democrats in this period of world crisis. For instance, the labor leader may somewhat justly think himself shrewd and successful for having killed certain reforms of union abuses, but if he makes the reform fail of effectiveness (as demanded in general by the electorate and two-thirds of congress) he actually serves only his enemies. Such tactica actually instigate strong arm tactics to force unions to produce, to keep prices in, to provide just economies and fair taxes. Indeed they might cause popular opinion to swing to force to accomplish its defeated will. Such union leadership would, in such a case, find itself ultimately unwise and shortsighted, blinded by concentration of an immediate objective which might lose its whole game.

As for the Republicans, many of their leaders have been going back to ways which were old at the time of the first Roosevelt, not realizing the popular demand of the people in the last election for some new action to invigorate democracy, and inspire it to work more efficiently, because it certainly was not working under OPA. Also the Republicans do not seem to be familiar with the tactics of pressure groups here, because this is the first term for most of them. Anyway their spreaded position in congress makes national leadership difficult, without administrative cooperation, and in the face of hot politics.

The exigencies of politics do not require that there be no leadership. I would say both parties had better stop running for election a year ahead of time as a first step.

Opinions expressed by the writer in the column are the views of the author and not necessarily those of the Circleville Herald.
